

we take it a step further – even if it gets a bit mystical now – and imagine something at tonight would have a building, and it can be to imagine what that would be for with nothing left, nothing there to think anything else.
The question arises: does the building still have a sound?
In a way, yes. I think each one needs a kind of tone.
They have sounds that aren't caused by factors. For to also what they are. Maybe it's the wall or something. But you only really feel there's something else there when you enter a space that's soundproofed. It's lovely. I find it's a beautiful thing when you're making a building and you imagine the building in that silence. I mean trying to make the building a quiet place. That's really difficult because because our world has become so noisy. With not so much being quietness. But I know other places that are much quieter and you have to go to some lengths to make quiet rooms and imagine the sound they make with all their proportions and materials in a silence of their own.
I realize the sound I am making must remind you of a certain – but that's more simple than that, and more quiet than that? How does it really sound, when we walk through it When we speak, when we talk to each other – what will

Atmospheres Architectural Environments Surrounding Objects Peter Zumthor:

Atmospheres Peter Zumthor, 2006 What really constitutes an architectural atmosphere Peter Zumthor says is this singular density and mood this feeling of presence well being harmony beauty under whose spell I experience what I otherwise would not experience in precisely this way Zumthor's passion is the creation of buildings that produce this kind of effect but how can one actually set out to achieve it In nine short illustrated chapters framed as a process of self observation Peter Zumthor describes what he has on his mind as he sets about creating the atmosphere of his houses Images of spaces and buildings that affect him are every bit as important as particular pieces of music or books that inspire him From the composition and presence of the materials to the handling of proportions and the effect of light this poetics of architecture enables the reader to recapitulate what really matters in the process of house design Architect Ruth Peltason, Grace Ong-Yan, 2017-11-07 In this completely revised and up to date edition the world's most accomplished architects Gehry Pei Meier Nouvel Piano and 37 more express their views on creativity inspiration and legacy in this visually stunning one of a kind collection The Pritzker Prize is the most prestigious international prize for architecture Architect includes all 42 recipients of the Pritzker Prize and captures in pictures and their own words their awe inspiring achievements Organized in reverse chronological order by laureate each chapter features four to six of the architect's major works including museums libraries hotels places of worship and more The text culled from notebooks interviews articles and speeches illuminates the architect's influences and inspirations personal philosophy and aspirations for his own work and the future of architecture The book includes More than 1000 stunning photographs blueprints sketches and CAD drawings Architect offers an unprecedented view into the minds of some of the most creative thinkers dreamers and builders of the last three decades and reveals that buildings are political emotional and spiritual Atmospheres of Projection Giuliana Bruno, 2022-10-13 Following on the success of Surface Bruno's previous book with us in this new one she explores the act and art of projection in its manifold guises and what those can tell us about how we think and feel and create the world we inhabit This is not just an exploration of the psychological operation of projection the idea that we cast onto others the qualities we refuse to acknowledge in ourselves It is a major work of cultural history and media archaeology As a way to transform space and atmosphere projection has a long history in the arts dating back to shadow plays camera obscuras magic lantern shows and phantasmagoria But the atmosphere of projection is not a thing of the past alone It is alive and well today It continues to fascinate us as screens filled with moving figures pervade the spaces of the art gallery and the museum as well as the environments of our daily lives What is the root of our fascination How does it manifest in contemporary art How do we define atmosphere How is projection an atmosphere Are these two modalities conceptually and historically related and how so Why are artists today so interested in environments and in elements of projection To explain this continual fascination with projection and atmosphere Bruno traverses psychoanalysis architecture the history of science visual art and moving

People-Centered Architecture Milton Shinberg, 2025-05-08 Shinberg has done something truly impressive. He has created a practical framework for architectural thinking and design grounded in the latest research on human perception and cognition. His ideas and insights offer a fresh perspective that have helped me clarify many aspects of my own approach to design. Stefan Behling, Architect Senior Executive Partner Head of Studio Foster Partners London. This book is a must read for architects and designers at any stage of their career. His inspiring and practical narrative makes even the most complex concepts accessible. Along the way, he offers aspiring and experienced professionals a fresh perspective to reignite their passion for architecture. Andrea de Paiva, Architect Urban Planner and Author Director of NeuroAU at the University of Brasilia. Milton Shinberg is at the vanguard of architects convinced that the design of buildings for people to flourish should incorporate a deep understanding of human psychology and neuroscience. A very clearly written book rich with reflections from the science of human emotions, embodiment, and aesthetics. People-Centered Architecture will greatly enhance architectural thinking, education, and practice. Anjan Chatterjee, MD FAAN Professor of Neurology, Psychology, and Architecture, University of Pennsylvania. A veteran architect's pragmatic guide to re-energizing design thinking, architectural practice, and architectural education with pivotal insights from the human sciences and wisdom harvested from non-architects. People-Centered Architecture: Design Practice Education is a unique and probing exploration designed to help architects better serve everyone who uses what architects design. In this one-of-a-kind book, architect and educator Milton Shinberg presents game-changing approaches to enhance, reorient, and re-energize design thinking. Shinberg draws from decades of dialogue with architects, designers, clients, artists, scientists, teachers, and his own students. His prompts and provocations, written in a clear and accessible narrative style, are organized to help architects who are humanists come to know much more about humans. Wise design becomes easier. In one concise volume, People-Centered Architecture: Design Practice Education delivers a vibrant framework for architectural practice for students and teachers of architecture and for clients and stakeholders. Through this book, each will see their project partners more clearly, more empathetically, and in ways that foster richer, better brainstorming and more productive collaboration. The coalition of the curious people intrigued by architecture and architects will get a peak behind the curtain.

A House and its Atmosphere Ben Jacks, 2018-01-15 A House and its Atmosphere is a meditative essay about the experience of designing and building a house of one's own. Told in seventy black and white photographs and a series of narrative excursions, architect Ben Jacks reflects on a lifetime of influences as he reveals the personal nature of inhabiting a place at the edge of a tidal cove on an island in Maine. In the book, he quietly advocates for the simple logic and modest ease of direct experience and an observational perspective in architecture. In chapters about imagining walking and designing, Ben Jacks reflects on the essence of architectural experience, describing what it is like to begin to make momentous decisions, arguing that aesthetic experience is the result of how one has learned to see. Memory family nature relationships and work inform design at every step A House and its Atmosphere is a grounded story about designing and building a small work of architecture With students of architecture and amateur builders in mind Ben Jacks makes a case for design informed by theories of place identification detail and craft The book is a primary source and a chronicle of experience of radical empiricism As such it offers a kind of conceptual tool kit for those interested in thinking about the processes of architecture designing and placemaking The book is a fresh and valuable contribution to the shelter memoir genre from a professional architect's perspective Beauty in Architecture Nele De Raedt, Maarten Delbeke, 2025-09-18 Beauty in Architecture brings together the views of architects artists critics historians and philosophers to explore how beauty can again become an integral part of discussions about architecture Despite its recent resurgence in the public debate about the built environment the notion of beauty remains problematic and contested in critical discourse about architecture When the topic is addressed it is either treated with suspicion historicized or contextualised or substituted with other often equally problematic terms such as order legibility atmosphere or character This collection brings together voices from theory scholarship and practice to show that a conversation about beauty in architecture is necessary not only because the general public speaks easily and frequently about beauty in architecture but also because much can be gained from taking it seriously Bringing together a diverse range of perspectives the essays reflect on the themes categories and concepts that should be part of such a conversation and show how talking about beauty engages important reflections on its ontology and what it involves values communities collectives and shared histories environment identity and political or legal mechanisms and institutions A must read for designers and theorists alike this volume allows readers to discover new strategies and concepts to foster the discussion of beauty in architecture Sensory Architecture Juliana Duarte Neves, 2024-05-02 Originally released in 2017 the book Sensory Architecture The Art of Designing for All Senses by Juliana Duarte Neves receives a second edition in 2024 revised and expanded Over the past six years there have been numerous advancements in the study of sensory architecture and many initiatives focused on emotionally engaging the visitor using the principles of sensory architecture which has become a gateway to new fields of research This second edition brings a refinement of the design methodology proposed in the original book and current examples that make its understanding and applicability clearer And the new chapter Unfolding of Sensory Architecture presents two examples of more recent areas of study This new edition broadens horizons with the inclusion of two fundamental contributions to the consolidation of the field of sensory architecture studies in Brazil the excellent reflections made by Lor Cr zel in the text The intertwining of sensory architecture with neuroarchitecture a synesthetic exploration and the very personal contribution of Ana Paula Chacur architect researcher and mother of two autistic children enriches the content with her unique perspective on Autism Spectrum Disorder and sensory architecture points out Juliana It is crucial that architecture collaborates so that individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorder ASD feel safe and balanced idea journal: interior technicity: unplugged and/or switched

Reading Architecture Angeliki Sioli, Yoonchun Jung, 2018-04-09 Why write instead of draw when it comes to architecture Why rely on literary pieces instead of architectural treatises and writings when it comes to the study of buildings and urban environments Why rely on literary techniques and accounts instead of architectural practices and analysis when it comes to academic research and educational projects Why trust authors and writers instead of sociologists or scientists when it comes to planning for the future of cities This book builds on the existing interdisciplinary bibliography on architecture and literature but prioritizes literature's capacity to talk about the lived experience of place and the premise that literary language can often express the inexpressible It sheds light on the importance of a literary instead of a pictorial imagination for architects and it looks into four contemporary architectural subjects through a wide variety of literary works Drawing on novels that engage cities from around the world the book reveals aspects of urban space to which other means of architectural representation are blind Whether through novels that employ historical buildings or sites interpreted through specific literary methods it suggests a range of methodologies for contemporary architectural academic research By exploring the power of narrative language in conveying the experience of lived space it discusses its potential for architectural design and pedagogy Questioning the massive architectural production of today's globalized capital driven world it turns to literature for ways to understand resist or suggest alternative paths for architectural practice Despite literature's fictional character the essays of this volume reveal true dimensions of and for places beyond their historical social and political reality dimensions of utmost importance for architects urban planners historians and theoreticians nowadays

Behind Architectural Filters Miguel Guitart, 2022-03-24 Behind Architectural Filters Phenomena of Interference explores the active role of architectural filters in generating physically and sensory charged spatial experiences The book addresses how the material and the psychological strategies of permeable physical boundaries determine our perceptual experiences of the spaces we occupy This book explores architectural filters as connecting mechanisms capable of conjuring unique atmospheres that integrate the participation of several agents The text analyzes ten case studies grouped under five generative parameters origin density thickness function and message Each study investigates the main aspects of the filters internal genesis and the character of the spaces informed by them The cases illustrate a broad geographic cultural and historical scope and connect past tradition with contemporary design This methodology considers a historical and philosophical standpoint addressing vernacular constructive sustainable and sensory considerations Written for students and scholars of architectural history theory art design and philosophy Behind Architectural Filters Phenomena of Interference offers an unprecedented perspective on the production of spatial atmospheres bridging past and present while connecting thought and practice in a highly visual study Chapter 3 of this book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
