Remodelling to Prepare for Independence Ian Morley, 2023-12-01 Remodelling to Prepare for Independence The Philippine Commonwealth Decolonisation Cities and Public Works c 1935 46 illuminates the implications of the USA's final phase of colonial rule in the Philippine Islands It explores the Filipino side of decolonisation and the management of the built environment in the years immediately prior to self rule This book shakes off the collaboration vs resistance paradigm that empire histories generally follow and consequently yields an original vantage point to comprehend transition within an Asian society in the years immediately prior to during and after World War Two This will not only deepen insight of the American Empire but also grants the opportunity to tie Philippine political cultural change to the global history of urban planning's advancement Accordingly it opens a new window to rethink Filipino ethno history and societal evolution alongside the opportunity to compare the Philippines with other nations that undertook planning projects as part of their decolonisation process and early postcolonial advancement The book utilises theoretical frames in order to help creatively excavate the era 1935 46 for the purpose of not just revealing what public works occurred but to also uncover what those projects meant to the Commonwealth Government the BPW's staff and the public who benefitted from public works projects The book will be relevant to students and researchers of Urban History Asian and American Empire History and Imperial and Colonial Studies Architects planners and members of the public who are interested in the form and meaning of urban environments designed constructed in the past will also find the publication to be of great interest Hard Interests, Soft Illusions Natasha

Hamilton-Hart, 2012-02-15 In Hard Interests Soft Illusions Natasha Hamilton Hart explores the belief held by foreign policy elites in much of Southeast Asia Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Thailand Singapore and Vietnam that the United States is a relatively benign power She argues that this belief is an important factor underpinning U S preeminence in the region because beliefs inform specific foreign policy decisions and form the basis for broad orientations of alignment opposition or nonalignment Such foundational beliefs however do not simply reflect objective facts and reasoning processes Hamilton Hart argues that they are driven by both interests in this case the political and economic interests of ruling groups in Southeast Asia and illusions Hamilton Hart shows how the information landscape and standards of professional expertise within the foreign policy communities of Southeast Asia shape beliefs about the United States. These opinions frequently rest on deeply biased understandings of national history that dominate perceptions of the past and underlie strategic assessments of the present and future. Members of the foreign policy community rarely engage in probabilistic reasoning or effortful knowledge testing strategies. This does not mean, she emphasizes, that the beliefs are insincere or merely instrumental rationalizations. Rather, cognitive and affective biases in the ways humans access and use information mean that interests influence beliefs. How they do so depends on available information, the social organization and practices of a professional sphere, and prevailing standards for generating knowledge.
