Flavonoids of the Sunflower Family (Asteraceae) Bruce A. Bohm, Tod F. Stuessy, 2013-11-27 Flavonoids are secondary plant products that have previously been shown to be helpful in determining relationships among plant groups This work presents comprehensively the occurrence patterns of variation and systematic and evolutionary importance of flavonoids in the sunflower family Asteraceae the largest family of flowering plants 23 000 species It gathers together the more than 2500 reports of flavonoids in Asteraceae published between 1950 to the present and interprets these data in context of new taxonomic especially generic alignments The authors discuss flavonoid patterns with reference to modern phylogenetic studies based on morphology and DNA data This book provides therefore the most exhaustive synthesis and evaluation of the systematic and evolutionary import of flavonoids ever accomplished for any large family of angiosperms

Biosynthetic Products for Cancer Chemotherapy George Pettit, 2012-12-06 An overall view of the cancer problem and development of cancer chemotherapy 231 peutic biosynthetic products to February 1976 was presented in Volume 1 In the short time that has elapsed since the preparation of Volume 1 several very stimulating advances in application of biosynthetic cancer chemotherapeutic drugs in cancer treatment have been reported At the May 1976 meeting in Toronto of the American Association for Cancer Research a Sloan Kettering research group summarized an improved treatment of human neuroblastoma using a combination of vincristine cytoxan trifluorothymidine and papaverine In the same period other clinical groups described significant advances in the cancer chemotherapeutic treatment of human breast cancer and oat cell carcinoma of the lung Each of these newer advances in cancer treatment was based on combinations of biosynthetic and synthetic cancer chemotherapeutic drugs Certainly further examination of the antineoplastic biosynthetic agents summarized in this volume and the vast number yet to be discovered will eventually provide the means for controlling and or curing the various types of human cancer

The South Indian Pentecostal Movement in the Twentieth Century Michael Bergunder, 2008-06-06 Making up approximately 20 percent of South India's Protestants Pentecostals are an influential part of India's Christian culture yet there is a distinct lack of scholarly focus on this increasingly large group This careful well informed study by Michael Bergunder ably fills that gap After a brief historical introduction to the worldwide growth of Pentecostalism Bergunder delves into the history of the South Indian Pentecostal movement in the first section The second section gives a systematic profile of the current movement in South India based on a wide range of source materials and on formal interviews with nearly two hundred leading pastors and evangelists Bergunder finishes his work with prospects for

The Flavonoids J. B. Harborne, T. J. Mabry, 2013-11-11

The flavonoid pigments one of the most numerous and widespread groups of natural constituents are of importance and interest to a wide variety of physical and biological scientists and work on their chemistry occurrence natural distribution and biological function continues unabated In 1975 a monograph covering their chemistry and biochemistry was published by Chapman and Hall under our editorship entitled The Flavonoids The considerable success of this publication indicated that it filled an important place in the scientific literature with its comprehensive coverage of these fascinating and versatile plant substances The present volume is intended to update that earlier work and provide a detailed review of progress in the flavonoid field during the years 1975 to 1980 Although cross references are made to The Flavonoids this supplement is entirely self contained and where necessary tabular data from the earlier volume are included and expanded here The choice of topics in Recent Advances has been dictated by the developments that have occurred in flavonoid research since 1975 so that not all subjects covered in The Flavonoids are reviewed again here A major advance in flavonoid separation has been the application of high performance liquid chromatography HPLC and this is reviewed inter alia in the opening chapter on separation techniques An equally important development in the spectral analysis of flavonoids has been the measurement of carbon 13 NMR spectra and this subject is authoritatively discussed in Chapter 2 and is also illustrated with the spectra of 125 representative flavonoids
