Municipal Waste Management In Europe A Comparative Study In Building Regimes 1st Edition:

Municipal Waste Management in Europe N. Buclet, 2013-06-29 Nicolas Buclet Waste management issues can be approached in several ways The question of which treatment technique to adopt is essentially a downstream problem In our view the issue needed to be tackled further upstream Waste management is not only a technical problem it is also an area which involves various actors throughout society In this book as in the previous volume Buclet Godard 2000 the organisation of waste management is seen in terms of regimes A regime is an entire form of institutional technical economic and social organisation relating to a specific field no matter how complex that field is Regime formation is generally a long drawn out process rooted in the multiple interactions of the actors involved Legislation plays a crucial role but would not of itself lead to the formation of a regime There is always the old question of causality and which element occurs first the behaviour of actors who constitute the reality or the legislation that models their behaviour Besides legislation other formal or informal conventions influence the behaviour of actors approaching a common path making co ordination easier between them In this book we have insisted on conventional principles They are the real guides for actors within each national regime

Adapting to EU Multi-Level Governance Panagiotis Getimis, 2016-12-05 The main theme of this book is the adaptation process of the new EU member states from Central Eastern Europe Hungary and Poland to the multi level system of governance in public policy particularly in the regional and environmental policy areas The work conceptualizes policy learning and institutional and policy adaptation within the EU system of governance and draws lessons from the experience of previous waves of enlargement cohesion countries Ireland Portugal and Greece In doing so the book makes an important contribution to the literature on the transformation of domestic policy making structures as a result of the increasing Europeanization of public policy as well as on the conceptual tools explanatory variables and mechanisms determining this process

Environmental Principles And Ethics (With Field Trip Guide) Ming H Wong, Frank W K Lee, Martin K F Fung, 2006-08-31 This book with the accompanying field trip guide aims to foster environmental literacy of non science students and to train them to look at environment related issues from a critical perspective With these books students will obtain knowledge on fundamental environmental ethics and the principles involved They will be in a position to apply these ethical principles in debates on local and global environment related issues The issues covered in the book include natural science resources management food safety public health sustainable development ecotourism nature conservation and ecological footprint as well as other current environment related issues in Hong Kong and South China The field trip guide aims to make use of the natural environment and other related premises as outdoor classrooms to illustrate the importance of conservation and environmental principles Both books could be used as reference materials by academic institutions non profit organizations and government departments They include practical educational materials on the life sciences and will help enhance readers knowledge of the environment

Municipal Waste Management in Europe N. Buclet, Olivier

Godard,2013-03-14 Nicolas Buclet and Olivier Godard In terms of economic scale waste management is one of the two most important environmentally oriented sectors 1 It stands at the cross roads in the material organization of society resource management changing lifestyles and consumption patterns and ecological issues For many years waste management has been perceived as a resource and health issue confined mainly to dense urban areas and not an environmental issue In contemporary affluent societies however the scale reached by waste flows the inheritance of accumulated deposits in soils from the waste of previous generations and increasing levels of public concern about environmental protection and quality of life have all conspired to impose a fresh look at what waste really implies for a modern society We are obliged to focus our attention on such questions as how the circulation of matter is at present organized by society and can be modified and controlled if economic development is to become more environmentally sustainable This is the period we live in Significant changes in waste management in European countries have been introduced during the last decade or so To some extent the transition between traditional regimes mainly based on local disposal and new regimes based on a revised organisation of flows of waste matter is still in the making involving new attitudes new activities new technologies and new incentives reducing the pressure on virgin natural resources and eliminating the huge dissipation of various pollutants into the environment
