Eastern Orthodox Christianity and American Higher Education Ann Mitsakos

Bezzerides, Elizabeth H. Prodromou, 2017-01-15 Over the last two decades the American academy has engaged in a wide ranging discourse on faith and learning religion and higher education and Christianity and the academy Eastern Orthodox Christians however have rarely participated in these conversations The contributors to this volume aim to reverse this trend by offering original insights from Orthodox Christian perspectives that contribute to the ongoing discussion about religion higher education and faith and learning in the United States The book is divided into two parts Essays in the first part explore the historical experiences and theological traditions that inform and sometimes explain Orthodox approaches to the topic of religion and higher education in ways that often set them apart from their Protestant and Roman Catholic counterparts Those in the second part problematize and reflect on Orthodox thought and practice from diverse disciplinary contexts in contemporary higher education The contributors to this volume offer provocative insights into philosophical questions about the relevance and application of Orthodox ideas in the religious and secular academy as well as cross disciplinary treatments of Orthodoxy as an identity marker pedagogical framework and teaching and research subject

My Voice Is My Weapon David A. McDonald, 2013-11-06 David A McDonald presents an ethnographic study of the role of music and musicians in the Palestinian struggle for self determination American Book Publishing Record, 2006 Arab Music Theory in the Modern Period Scott Lloyd Marcus, 1996 The dissertation is a critical review of modern Arab modal theory as presented in written sources as taught in present day Cairo and as conceptualized by contemporary performers The temporal focus of the study the modern period extends roughly from the mid eighteenth century to the present day The geographic focus is the eastern Mediterranean region ranging from Egypt to Syria and Lebanon The first chapter introduces the modern period giving special attention to the changing position of music and music theory in Arab culture It also introduces the main Arabic language sources The remainder of the dissertation is divided into four parts dealing with notes tetrachords modes and modulation respectively Part one considers the notes as they are conceptualized in the indigenous system of Arabic Persian note names discusses the introduction of Western solfège and Western notation into Middle Eastern music culture and analyzes concepts of tuning and intonation held by modern period theorists and present day performers Part Two discusses melodic intervals and modern tetrachordal theory Part Three analyzes a number of important issues concerning the musical modes the maqamat s maqam including their number and classification The essential elements that contribute to the definition of the individual modes are discussed in turn in a multisectioned chapter ten e g tonic ambitus starting notes etc Part Four examines the role of and the rules governing modulation in contemporary practice Within each chapter discussions are organized chronologically beginning with concepts that existed in the late eighteenth early nineteenth centuries and ending with those that exist today A concluding chapter views aspects of music theory from a cross cultural perspective While the quarter tone scale has provided an important element of continuity throughout the modern period it is found that the concept of mode has changed drastically over the same period This and other changes in the music theory occurred in response to a variety of social cultural and musical forces In view of these changes the modern period is best divided into three subperiods early middle and present day The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2007 The Book Review Digest ,2003 Tarab Michael Frishkopf,Scott Marcus,Dwight Reynolds,2025 How the concept of arab has impacted music and culture across the Islamic world The Garland Encyclopedia of World Music Virginia Danielson,Dwight Reynolds,Scott Marcus,2017-09-25 Expert writers present the major traditions of North Africa the Middle East and Central Asia together with personal accounts of performers composers teachers and ceremonies A special feature of this volume is the inclusion of dozens of brief snap shot essays that offer lifestories of typical musicmakers and their art as well as first person descriptions of specific music performances and events Also includes maps and music examples Music in Egypt Scott L.
