1. Water Cycle

Introduction

Precipitation, evaporation, and condensation are all terms that you recognize, but what do they really mean? They are all part of the water cycle, which is a complex process that not only gives us water to drink, and food to eat, but also helps our plants grow. Only about 3% of the Earth's water is fresh, and 1% of that water can be used for many human purposes. Why can't we use the other 2% of the fresh water found on the Earth? What about the other 97% of the water found in the world? To find these answers and to discover more, come along for an interactive journey through the water cycle!

Mackenzie, Lei Chou, 1993 This book is a natural extension of the SCOPE Scientific Committee of Problems on the Environment volumes on the carbon C nitrogen N phosphorus P and sulfur S biogeochemical cycles and their interactions Likens 1981 Bolin and Cook 1983 Substantial progress in the knowledge of these cycles has been made since publication of those volumes In particular the nature and extent of biological and inorganic interactions between these cycles have been identified positive and negative feedbacks recognized and the relationship between the cycles and global environmental change preliminarily elucidated In March 1991 a NATO Advanced Research Workshop was held for one week in Melreux Belgium to reexamine the biogeochemical cycles of C N P and S on a variety of time and space scales from a holistic point of view This book is the result of that workshop The biogeochemical cycles of C N P and S are intimately tied to each other through biological productivity and subsequently to problems of global environmental change These problems may be the most challenging facing humanity in the 21 st century In the broadest sense global change encompasses both changes to the status of the large globally connected atmospheric oceanic and terrestrial environments e g tropospheric temperature increase and change occurring as the result of nearly simultaneous local changes in many regions of the world e g eutrophication Biogeochemical Cycles and Climate A. J. Dolman, 2019 Changing concentrations of greenhouse gasses are key to our changing climate Biogeochemical Cycles and Climate examines the interaction of the main biogeochemical cycles of the earth with the physics of climate from the perspective of the earth as an integrated system Biogeochemical cycles play a fundamental role in the Earth s system they describe the movement of matter and transfer of energy around the planet This text aims to answer some fundamental questions How have the cycles of key nutrients such as carbon nitrogen phosphorous and water changed both in the geological past and more recently through the impact of humans on the Earth System How do these cycles interact with each other and affect the physical properties of climate How can we use this knowledge to mitigate some of the impacts of changing biogeochemistry on climate and the Earth s habitability and resilience Understanding the complex interactions of biogeochemistry with the Earth s climate is crucial for understanding past and current changes in climate and above all for the future sustainable management of our planet Interactions of the Major Biogeochemical Cycles Jerry M.
