Experience in the Application of the Development Aid Effectiveness Principles Daniel Kipleel Borter, Nadeem Malik, 2023-02-25 This book analyses the diffusion and implementation of Aid Effectiveness Principles in Kenya's agricultural sector. Although Aid Effectiveness Principles represent a significant step in aid and development discourse, studies on its implementation remain inadequate, especially in the African context. This book combines the perspectives of the Kenyan government donor representatives and small scale farmers. The discussion on Kenya brings in comparative perspectives and therefore would have broader relevance to the African region in general. It highlights a disconnect between the government and farmers concerning the ownership concept where farmers lack a voice in important policy matters. The book shows that donors have exploited the weaknesses in government responses to interpret The Principles in ways that suit their strategic interests. Consequently, the book argues that the diffusion of Aid Effectiveness Principles has taken the form of symbolic imitation, a form of policy diffusion where the policymakers choose policies for their symbolic value rather than their effectiveness.

Development Cooperation Policy in Forestry from an Analytical Perspective Peter Aurenhammer, 2012-08-14 Any reader eager to gain a comprehensive insight into forest development policy praxis and reality shouldn't miss this excellent publication. Hard to find a comparable reading where the author is digging as deep into Forest Development Policy. The author discovered numerous highly relevant theories as well as inspiring cases about forests and people from around the world, focusing on change rather than development and on the role of various actors in creating or preventing change. The exciting results uncover reality and lead to inspiring discussions on concepts of development cooperation. All individual theoretical arguments and empirical proofs are well based and shed light into the political process of Forest Development Policy. The book is an essential contribution to scholarly debate and research on forestry in the South and its relations to development cooperation for both readers with theoretical and practice related interests.

Government expenditures in Kenya, 1950-2014: Determinants and agricultural growth effects Benin, Samuel, Odjo, Sunday, 2018-11-29 Annual data on Kenya from 1950 to 2014 are used to analyze the determinants of the level and composition of government expenditures and estimate the agricultural output returns to the different types of government expenditures. The paper analyzes expenditures for six functions: general administration, defense, education, health, agriculture, and other economic functions, transport, communications, etc., as well as the capital to recurrent expenditure ratios within each of the six functions. Simultaneous equations modeling methods are employed, and different diagnostic tests are used to check for and address issues with stationarity, causality, and autocorrelation. Different model specifications are used to assess the sensitivity of the results to using different measures and combinations of the conceptual variables that are hypothesized to affect the composition of government expenditures and agricultural production.

A framework for gender equality and social inclusion in agribusiness transformation in East and Southern Africa Nortje, Karen, Joshi, Deepa, Enokenwa Baa, Ojongetakah, Mapedza, Everisto, Davis, K., 2023-03-31 A Gender Equality and Social Inclusion (GESI) approach is fundamental to agribusiness transformation in the Eastern and Southern Africa region Work package 5 aims to bring about inclusive and scalable agribusiness innovations through targeted GESI support to UU ESA work packages 1 6 To achieve this we produced this GESI framework on social economic political and institutional barriers and opportunities to more inclusive agribusiness in the ESA region This framework will ensure that planned interventions under UU are designed and implemented to empower more women and youth as farmers agribusiness owners and actors with voice and visibility across agribusiness value chains The GESI framework was produced by reviewing relevant literature and talking to agribusiness stakeholders especially women and youth in four initial countries Ethiopia Kenya Zambia and Zimbabwe Kenya Citizens Report Card on Service Delivery ,2003

Development and Agroforestry Steven Franzel,Steven Charles Franzel,2002 Examines agroforestry development projects around the globe addressing the question of how local small scale development successes can be scaled up to create wider long term benefits Contributors discuss the relationship between theory and practice the role of research in development constraints on scaling up local successes human motivation for risk taking and learning and how individuals and communities respond to technical innovation The authors convey their own passionate commitment to the small and often marginal farmers with whom they work and stress the importance of experimenting with a range of possible agroforestry techniques and approaches to monitoring and evaluation in conjunction with the farming communities who will adopt or reject these methods over time Food Security, Gender and Resilience Leigh Brownhill,Esther Njuguna,Kimberly L. Bothi,Bernard Pelletier,Lutta Muhammad,Gordon M. Hickey,2016-01-22 Through the integration of gender analysis into resilience thinking this book shares field based research insights from a collaborative integrated project aimed at improving food security in subsistence and smallholder agricultural systems The scope of the book is both local and multi scalar The gendered resilience framework illustrated here with detailed case studies from semi arid Kenya is shown to be suitable for use in analysis in other geographic regions and across disciplines The book examines the importance of gender equity to the strengthening of socio ecological resilience Case studies reflect multidisciplinary perspectives and focus on a range of issues from microfinance to informal seed systems The book s gender perspective also incorporates consideration of age or generational relations and cultural dimensions in order to embrace the complexity of existing socio economic realities in rural farming communities The issue of succession of farmland has become a general concern both to farmers and to researchers focused on building resilient farming systems Building resilience here is shown to involve strengthening households and communities overall livelihood capabilities in the face of ongoing climate change global market volatility and political instability

African Urban Harvest Gordon Prain, 2010-09-17 This book seeks to answer the question of how much urban agriculture helps feed and support people living in towns and cities with evidence and proposals based on studies in Eastern and Central Africa
