Hunter, 1997-05-20 As the Civil War drew to a close newly emancipated black women workers made their way to Atlanta the economic hub of the newly emerging urban and industrial south in order to build an independent and free life on the rubble of their enslaved past In an original and dramatic work of scholarship Tera Hunter traces their lives in the postbellum era and reveals the centrality of their labors to the African American struggle for freedom and justice Household laborers and washerwomen were constrained by their employers

domestic worlds but constructed their own world of work play negotiation resistance and community organization Hunter follows African American working women from their newfound optimism and hope at the end of the Civil War to their struggles as free domestic laborers in the homes of their former masters We witness their drive as they build neighborhoods and networks and their energy as they enjoy leisure hours in dance halls and clubs We learn of their militance and the way they resisted efforts to keep them economically depressed and medically victimized Finally we understand the despair and defeat provoked by Jim Crow laws and segregation and how they spurred large numbers of black laboring women to migrate north Hunter weaves a rich and diverse tapestry of the culture and experience of black women workers in the post Civil War south Through anecdote and data analysis and interpretation she manages to penetrate African American life and labor and to reveal the centrality of women at the inception and at the heart of the new south Hine Sight Darlene Clark

Black Women Black Love reveals how white supremacy has systematically broken the heart of Black America and it proposes strategies for dismantling the structural forces that have plagued Black love and marriage for centuries Private Politics and Public Voices Nikki Brown,2006-12-28 This political history of middle class African American women during World War I focuses on their patriotic activity and social work Nearly 200 000 African American men joined the Allied forces in France At home black clubwomen raised more than 125 million in wartime donations and assembled comfort kits for black soldiers with chocolate cigarettes socks a bible and writing materials Given the hostile racial climate of the day why did black women make considerable financial contributions to the American and Allied war effort Brown argues that black women approached the war from the nexus of the private sphere of home and family and the public sphere of community and labor activism Their activism supported their communities and was fueled by a personal attachment to black soldiers and black families Private Politics and Public Voices follows their lives after the war when they carried their debates about race relations into public political activism A Shining Thread of Hope Darlene Clark Hine,Kathleen Thompson,1999 At the greatest moments and in the cruelest times black women have been a crucial part of America s history Now the inspiring history of black women in America is explored in vivid detail by two leaders in the fields of African American and women s history A Shining Thread of Hope chronicles the lives of black women from indentured servitude in the early American colonies to the cruelty of antebellum plantations from the reign of lynch law in the Jim Crow South to the triumphs of the Civil Rights era and it illustrates how the story of black women in America is as much a tale of courage and hope as it is a history of struggle On both an individual and a collective level A Shining Thread of Hope reveals the strength and spirit of black women and brings their stories from the fringes of American history to a central position in our understanding of the forces and events that have shaped this country How Long? Black Mothers and the National Body Politic Andrea Powell Wolfe, 2020-10-14 Black Mothers and the National Body Politic The Narrative Positioning of the Black Maternal Body from the Civil War Period through the Present focuses on the struggles and triumphs of black motherhood in six works of narrative prose composed from the Civil War period through the present Andrea Powell Wolfe examines the functioning of the black maternal body to both define and undermine ideal white womanhood the physical scarring of the black mother and the reclamation of the black maternal body as a site of subversion and nurturance as well as erotic empowerment and the construction of oppressive discourses surrounding black female bodies and reproduction and the development of resistance to these types of discourses These tensions undergird a multifaceted discussion of the narrative positioning of the black maternal body within and in relationship to the national body politic an inherently exclusionary and restrictive metaphorical entity constructed and socially contracted over time by an already politically empowered citizenry Ultimately close analysis of the texts under study suggests that the United States as a figurative body complete with imagined parts that perform separate functions from intelligence to labor ingestion to expulsion has simultaneously used and cast off the black maternal body over the course of centuries Unknown Tongues Gayle T. Tate, 2003 Annotation Black women operated in two sites of resistance for community empowerment says Tate political science Rutgers U One was slavery where women laid the foundation of a culture of resistance that empowered the slave community to survive and resist slavery The other was free black women in the industrialized northeast who stimulated the black movement s emphasis on community cohesiveness organizational development and political agitation Annotation c 2003 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com
