The Long Ascent, Volume 3 Robert Sheldon, 2023-06-20. Can Eden, the flood, and the Tower of Babel be real events that historians have simply renamed? Could Finnish and Norse, Hindu, Greek, and Egyptian myths all be recording this same real history? Did Noah's generation surpass the agricultural, nuclear, and biotech technology of the twenty-first century? How did the ancients cut the multi-ton stones of the Egyptian pyramids and Incan walls or melt Scottish forts? Did ancient China and Sumer know about the twin helix of DNA? Were successful human breeding experiments the origin of giants, while monsters like Grendel were the result of failures? What disaster occurred to them that caused the forgetting of all this knowledge? We know that comets captured by the sun's gravity break up into boulder streams that periodically intersect the Earth's orbit. Plato and the rabbis told us that repeating cosmic disasters have erased most of our history, leaving us only myth and Genesis. This book weaves the modern scientific evidence from Greenland ice cores, Mediterranean bathymetry, NASA archaeology, and human genetics with the linguistic insights of the Hebrew of Genesis 1:11 into a compelling narrative that we are only the second most advanced civilization on planet Earth. For now.

Entangled Ian Hodder, 2023-08-08. Offers a comprehensive and accessible introduction to the theory of material entanglement and entrapment, enriched with vivid examples from everyday life. Entangled explores how archaeological evidence can help provide a better understanding of the direction of human social and technological change, demonstrating how the interrelationship of humans and things is a defining characteristic of human history and culture. Using examples drawn from both the early farming settlements of the Middle East and daily life in the modern world, Ian Hodder highlights the complex co-dependencies of humans and things, arguing that the maintenance and sustaining of material worlds are the unseen drivers of human development. Updated and expanded, Entangled offers new perspectives on the study of the relationality between things and humans In this edition the author reframes relationality in terms of various forms of dependence to better explore inequality injustice and the ways people get entrapped in detrimental social and economic situations An entirely new chapter focuses on human dependence on other humans such as between colonial powers and colonized people Increased focus is placed on object oriented ontologies and assemblages symmetrical archaeology and indigenous and radical approaches in archaeology that critique relationality and posthumanism A wide range of new examples references and literature are presented throughout the book Argues that dependence on things forces humans down particular evolutionary pathways and social trends Demonstrates how long standing entanglements can be irreversible and increase in scale and complexity over time Integrates archaeology natural and biological sciences and the social sciences Presents a critical review of key contemporary perspectives including material culture studies phenomenology evolutionary theory cognitive archaeology human ecology and complexity theory Entangled A New Archaeology of the Relationships between Humans and Things Second Edition is essential reading for undergraduate and graduate students lecturers researchers and scholars in the fields of archeology anthropology material culture studies and related fields across the social sciences and humanities
