Bending the Rules Rachel Augustine Potter, 2019-06-15 Who determines the fuel standards for our cars What about whether Plan B the morning after pill is sold at the local pharmacy Many people assume such important and controversial policy decisions originate in the halls of Congress But the choreographed actions of Congress and the president account for only a small portion of the laws created in the United States By some estimates more than ninety percent of law is created by administrative rules issued by federal agencies like the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Health and Human Services where unelected bureaucrats with particular policy goals and preferences respond to the incentives created by a complex procedure bound rulemaking process With Bending the Rules Rachel Augustine Potter shows that rulemaking is not the rote administrative activity it is commonly imagined to be but rather an intensely political activity in its own right Because rulemaking occurs in a separation of powers system bureaucrats are not free to implement their preferred policies unimpeded the president Congress and the courts can all get involved in the process often at the bidding of affected interest groups However rather than capitulating to demands bureaucrats routinely employ procedural politicking using their deep knowledge of the process to strategically insulate their proposals from political scrutiny and interference Tracing the rulemaking process from when an agency first begins working on a rule to when it completes that regulatory action Potter shows how bureaucrats use procedures to resist interference from Congress the President and the courts at each stage of the process This exercise reveals that unelected bureaucrats wield considerable influence over the direction of public policy in the United States

Berlin,2020-03-25 Why do countries adopt criminal legislation making it possible to prosecute government and military officials for human rights violations Over the past thirty years dozens of countries have prosecuted their own or other states officials for past atrocities In Criminalizing Atrocity Mark Berlin tells the story of the global spread of national criminal laws against atrocity crimes genocide war crimes and crimes against humanity laws that have helped pave the way for this remarkable trend toward greater accountability He traces the early 20th century origins of national atrocity laws to a group of influential European criminal law scholars and explains the global patterns by which these laws have since spread Berlin shows that understanding why countries criminalize atrocities requires understanding how they do so In many cases criminalization has not been the result of concerted government initiative but of inconspicuous choices made by technocratic legal experts who have been delegated authority to draft large scale reforms to countries national criminal codes Drawing on research in comparative law and norm diffusion Berlin explains how such reform projects prompt technocratic drafters to select legal ideas like atrocity laws that have been endorsed by their professional communities and deemed by drafters to be important features of a modern criminal code To test this argument Berlin draws on original quantitative and qualitative data including in depth case studies of Guatemala Poland Colombia and the Maldives and a new comprehensive dataset tracking the global spread of atrocity laws since World War II The book's findings highlight the importance of professional communities in the modern renaissance of atrocity justice and the domestication of international legal norms Social Practices of Rule-Making in World Politics Mark Raymond, 2019-02-18 This book seeks to explain how political actors know how to change interpret and apply the rules that comprise rule based global order It argues that actors in world politics are simultaneously engaged in an ongoing social practice of rule making interpretation and application Gendered Peace Donna Pankhurst, 2012-07-26 This volume contributes to the growing literature on women conflict and peacebuilding by focusing on the moments after a peace accord or some other official ending of a conflict often denoted as post conflict or post war Such moments often herald great hope for holding to account those who committed grave wrongs during the conflict and for a better life in the future For many women both of these hopes are often very quickly shattered in starkly different ways to the hopes of men Such periods are often characterized by violence and insecurities and the official ending of a war often fails to bring freedom from sexual violence for many women Within such a context efforts on the part of women and those made on their behalf to hold to account those who commit crimes against them and to access their rights are difficult to make are often dangerous and are also often deployed with little effect Gendered Peace explores international contexts and a variety of local ones in which such struggles take place and evaluates their progress The volume highlights the surprising success in the development of international legal advances for women but contrasts this with the actual experience of women in cases from Sierra Leone Rwanda South Africa Afghanistan Bangladesh East Timor Peru Central America and the Balkans conference series aims at fostering interdisciplinary research in pure and applied logic Dispute System Design Lisa Blomgren Amsler, Janet Martinez, Stephanie E. Smith, 2020-06-02 Dispute System Design walks readers through the art of successfully designing a system for preventing managing and resolving conflicts and legally framed disputes Drawing on decades of expertise as instructors and consultants the authors show how dispute systems design can be used within all types of organizations including business firms nonprofit organizations and international and transnational bodies This book has two parts the first teaches readers the foundations of Dispute System Design DSD describing bedrock concepts and case chapters exploring DSD across a range of experiences including public and community justice conflict within and beyond organizations international and comparative systems and multi jurisdictional and complex systems This book is intended for anyone who is interested in the theory or practice of DSD who uses or wants to understand mediation arbitration court trial or other dispute resolution processes or who designs or improves existing processes and systems The Pitfalls of Family Rule Barbara Junisbai, 2025-02-15 In The Pitfalls of Family Rule Barbara Junisbai questions the conceptual divide separating democracy from nondemocracy as well as that separating strong authoritarian rulers from weak ones Focusing on patronage endemic to post Soviet Eurasia but also present the world over she untangles the spoils agreements that bind elites to strongman presidents Incorporating multiple case studies including an in depth investigation into Kazakhstan over the span of twenty plus years Junisbai demonstrates the power of institutional norms to hold seemingly unconstrainable rulers accountable in surprising and unexpected ways Strong autocrats can stumble even when they set in place robust pro presidential institutions while weak autocrats can endure by upholding normative contracts that elites perceive as fair and just An important lesson emerges from The Pitfalls of Family Rule not even the most personalist of regimes functions free of rules The institutions over which autocrats claim control also lay claim over them Transatlantic Energy Relations John R. Deni, Karen Smith Stegen, 2016-04-08 Recent upheaval in the global energy system dramatic increases in demand led largely by developing countries significant decreases in supply as a result of local or regional conflicts and the growing nexus between the burning of hydrocarbons and climate change has unsettled long held notions of energy security For many years transatlantic cooperation helped undergird the system s stability but Europe and North America have drifted apart in several key ways potentially undermining the search for energy sufficiency surety and sustainability Will the transatlantic partners continue on separate paths in the face of dramatic change in the global energy system or does the breadth and depth of the challenges they confront compel them to work more closely together In this edited volume experts from across Europe and North America including advisors to the executive and legislative branches of both the EU and the United States to senior military commanders and to major international organizations and companies examine the most salient facets of the transatlantic energy relationship and discern whether that relationship is characterized by growing convergence or divergence This book was based on a special issue of the Journal of Transatlantic Studies Reducing Armed Violence with NGO Governance Rodney Bruce Hall, 2013-10-01 NGOs have proliferated in number and become increasingly influential players in world politics in the past three decades. From the 1970s, with the access of social movements and private NGOs to local and international institutions, NGOs have enjoyed an opening to bring impact to global policy debates. Yet NGOs find themselves highly constrained in bringing their material and epistemic resources to bear in the security arena where their activities normally must be authorized by states or international organizations acting with authority delegated from states. They also find their activities particularly in the security arena come frequently under attack as lacking accountability or lacking legitimacy as NGOs are self-appointed private actors often representing only themselves; they are seen by many as self-appointed meddlers in transnational affairs. This book provides a comprehensive and accessible analysis of whether or the extent to which NGOs can contribute as private actors to authoritative governance outcomes in the security realm and thereby help mitigate armed violence by plugging governance gaps in this arena that state actors or international governmental organizations (IGOs) either neglect or can better address with NGO assistance. This book examines the current and future issues surrounding this objective in four sections: i) a practitioner's perspective of the potentials of conflict governance NGOs; ii) global civil society and legitimation of conflict governance NGO activities; iii) conflict governance NGOs as norm entrepreneurs and norm diffusion in global governance; iv) conflict governance NGOs in action.
