argues Lassiter is among the most powerful ways to press ethnographic fieldwork and writing into the service of an applied and public scholarship A comprehensive and highly accessible handbook for ethnographers of all stripes The Chicago Guide to Collaborative Ethnography will become a fixture in the development of a critical practice of anthropology invaluable to both undergraduates graduate students and faculty alike African Traditions Meeting Islam Lawrence Odhiambo

Köksal,2023-01-31 While previous research has explored the academic adaptation or acculturation processes of Chinese students studying abroad limited attention has been paid to students own perspectives and narrations of their experience To contribute to a more nuanced understanding of this highly mobile group this study takes a closer look at the students self identity narratives How do they make sense of their foreign adventure How do they position themselves among their peers and their family members as well as within the greater transnational context Based on 29 in depth biographical interviews with Chinese students in the United States the findings show the participants continuously interpreting and revising their individual academic and cultural identities In the familial context a recurring narrative of the high potential only child could be observed Many students and their family members felt that their unique talents and personalities were not appreciated within the Chinese educational system and thus sought more holistic environments abroad
