The Man Who Tasted Shapes, revised edition Richard E. Synesthesia Richard E. Cytowic, 2018-03-09 An accessible concise primer on the neurological trait of synesthesia vividly felt sensory couplings by a founder of the field One in twenty three people carry the genes for the synesthesia Not a disorder but a neurological trait like perfect pitch synesthesia creates vividly felt cross sensory couplings A synesthete might hear a voice and at the same time see it as a color or shape taste its distinctive flavor or feel it as a physical touch In this volume in the MIT Press Essential Knowledge series Richard Cytowic the expert who returned synesthesia to mainstream science after decades of oblivion offers a concise accessible primer on this fascinating human experience Cytowic explains that synesthesia s most frequent manifestation is seeing days of the week as colored followed by sensing letters numerals and punctuation marks in different hues even when printed in black Other manifestations include tasting food in shapes seeing music in moving colors and mapping numbers and other sequences spatially One synesthete declares Chocolate smells pink and sparkly another invents a dish chicken vanilla ice cream and orange juice concentrate that tastes intensely blue Cytowic who in the 1980s revived scientific interest in synesthesia sees it now understood as a spectrum an umbrella term that covers five clusters of outwardly felt couplings that can occur via several pathways Yet synesthetic or not each brain uniquely filters what it perceives Cytowic reminds us that each individual's perspective on the world is thoroughly subjective
