

Authorship and Composition of the Torah

I. Introduction: What is the difference between authorship and composition?

The question of authorship is a question about who wrote the text. The question of composition is a question about how the text was written. We will first examine the traditional view of who wrote the Torah, then explore a few things that faithful readers of the text have noticed which create problems for the traditional view. Then we will examine what contemporary scholars are saying about how the text came to be in the form that we now have.

II. Authorship

A. The Traditional View

The Torah is often called the “Law of Moses” and readers readily assume that its author was Moses. The designation “Law of Moses”, however, does not necessarily imply this view. The main human character in the Torah is Moses, and the Covenant at Sinai/Horeb is given through him. The phrase of Moses can be taken as a reference to this role.

Still it is the case that Moses was assumed to be the author by many in ancient Israel and in the early Christian communities. Jesus’ challengers assumed this (Mark 12:19; Luke 20:28). The authors of the gospels clearly present Jesus as believing that Moses gave certain commandments which are now included in the Torah, though they do not claim that Jesus believed Moses wrote the entire Torah (see Matthew 8:4, for example).

B. Difficulties with the Traditional View

Even a superficial reading of the Torah calls the traditional view of its authorship into question. Here are several things that have caused committed Christians and Jews to think that someone other than Moses may have written these books.

1. The Torah does not claim to be written by Moses. There is no statement in the Torah that claims that Moses wrote the entire five-book collection. There are statements in Deuteronomy which claim

Inner-Midrashic Introductions and Their Influence on Introductions to Medieval Rabbinic Bible Commentaries Michel G. Distefano, 2009-02-26 The opening sections of some exegetical Midrashim deal with the same type of material that is found in introductions to medieval rabbinic Bible commentaries The application of Goldberg's form analysis to these sections reveals the new form Inner Midrashic Introduction IMI as a thematic discourse on introductory issues to biblical books By its very nature the IMI is embedded within the comments on the first biblical verse 1:1 Further analysis of medieval rabbinic Bible commentary introductions in terms of their formal thematic and material characteristics reveals that a high degree of continuity exists between them and the IMIs including another newly discovered form the Inner Commentary Introduction These new discoveries challenge the current view that traces the origin of Bible introduction in Judaism exclusively to non-Jewish models They also point to another important link between the Midrashim and the commentaries i.e. the decomposition of the functional form midrash in the new discursive context of the commentaries Finally the form analysis demonstrates how larger discourses are formed in the exegetical Midrashim

Rahel Wells, 2020-12-11 For many years the historical critical quest for a reconstruction of the origin and development of the Pentateuch or Hexateuch has been dominated by the documentary hypothesis the heuristic power of which has produced a consensus so strong that an interpreter who did not operate within its framework was hardly regarded as a scholar However the relentless march of research on this topic has continued to yield new and refined analyses data methodological tools and criticism In this spirit the contributions to this volume investigate new ideas about the composition of the Pentateuch arising from careful analysis of the biblical text against its ancient Near Eastern background Covering a wide spectrum of topics and diverging perspectives the chapters in this book are grouped into two parts The first is primarily concerned with the history of scholarship and alternative approaches to the development of the Pentateuch The second focuses on the exegesis of particular texts relevant to the composition of the Torah The aim of the project is to foster investigation and collegial dialogue in a spirit of humility and frankness without imposing uniformity In addition to the editors the contributors include Tiago Arrais Richard E Averbeck John S Bergsma Joshua A Berman Daniel I Block Richard Davidson Roy E Gane Duane A Garrett Richard S Hess Benjamin Kilchir Michael LeFebvre Ji Moskala and Christian Vogel
