The AS9100C, AS9110, and AS9120 Handbook James Culliton, 2014-04-10 AS9100 AS9110 and AS9120 the quality management system QMS standards for the aerospace industry are written in the most ambiguous language possible Indeed they don't outline how they should be implemented Those decisions are left to the organization implementing their requirements or in some cases to a consultant Although some consultant firms for aerospace systems are excellent there are many that purport to be experts yet proffer systems and processes that are either in contravention to the standards requirements or so unwieldy that they render the process impotent In an effort to simplify these issues this book proposes practices that have been described as opportunities for improvement or best practices by registration auditors in the past It includes a discussion of each of the three standards clauses suggests best practices to comply with them outlines common findings associated with them and provides an overview of the changes to AS9100C from AS9100B Aerospace Standard Society of Automotive Engineers, 2009 Aerospace Standard, 2012 Aerospace Series Quality Management System Assessment for Maintenance Organizations (Based on ISO 9001:2000) G-14 Americas Aerospace Quality Standards Committee (AAQSC), 2012 This document is Cancelled and Superseded by the inclusion of the requirements in the latest version of AS9101 Quality Management Systems - Aerospace - Requirements G-14 Americas Aerospace Quality Standards Committee (AAQSC), 2004 This standard includes ISO 9001 20001 quality management system requirements and specifies additional requirements for a quality management system for the aerospace industry The additional aerospace requirements are shown in bold italic text It is emphasized that the quality management system requirements specified in this standard are complementary not alternative to contractual and applicable law and regulatory requirements This International Standard specifies requirements for a quality management system where an organization needs to demonstrate its ability to consistently provide product that meets customer and applicable regulatory requirements and aims to enhance customer satisfaction through the effective application of the system including processes for continual improvement of the system and the assurance of conformity to customer and applicable regulatory requirements NOTE In this International Standard the term product applies only to the product intended for or required by a customer

Aerospace Series - Quality Management Systems - Variation Management of Key Characteristics G-14 Americas Aerospace Quality Standards Committee (AAQSC), 2012 This standard is primarily intended to apply to new parts and products but can also be applied to parts currently in production The standard shall be applicable to all production processes that influence the variation of KCs as well as maintenance processes in which KCs are identified It applies to assemblies and all levels of parts within an assembly down to the basic materials including castings and forgings and to organizations that are responsible for producing the design characteristics of the product It does not apply to lab scale pilot or pre production processes However particular management of some KCs might be required using other methods than those described in the standard during these phases of a program when required by the customer or deemed appropriate by the organization e.g Engineering department requirement The variation control process begins with product definition typically an engineering drawing or specification which identifies KCs and leads to a variation management program for those KCs This process may also be used for producer identified KCs Producers and their subcontractors shall be responsible for flow down of the requirements of the applicable revision of this standard to subcontractors who produce design characteristics and for ensuring that KCs conform to customer requirements This standard was revised to coincide with the updated information presented in the International Aerospace Quality Group IAQG 9100 series standards i.e 9100 2009 9110 2009 All other changes made to standard requirements or methods presented herein were editorial in nature Quality Management Systems - Aerospace Requirements for Stockist Distributors G-14 Americas Aerospace Quality Standards Committee (AAQSC),2002 This standard includes ISO 9001 20001 quality management system requirements and specifies additional requirements for a quality management system for the aerospace industry applicable to stockist distributors The additional aerospace requirements are shown in bold italic text It is emphasized that the quality management system requirements specified in this standard are complementary not alternative to contractual and applicable law and regulatory requirements This International Standard specifies requirements for a quality management system where an organization needs to demonstrate its ability to consistently provide product that meets customer and applicable regulatory requirements and aims to enhance customer satisfaction through the effective application of the system including processes for continual improvement of the system and the assurance of conformity to customer and applicable regulatory requirements NOTE In this International Standard the term product applies only to the product intended for or required by a customer

Inspection and Test Quality Systems Requirements for Aviation, Space, and Defense Organizations G-14 Americas Aerospace Quality Standards Committee (AAQSC),2012 This standard includes selected quality system requirements from ISO 9001 2008 1 and AS9100 2009 applicable to noncomplex products and associated manufacturing processes ISO 9001 text incorporated into this standard appears in standard font while aviation space and defense industry additional requirements definitions and notes are presented in bold italic text The requirements of this standard are intended to be applied in whole without any exclusions Compliance with all corresponding AS9100 requirements is considered to meet exceed compliance with the requirements of this standard The requirements specified in this standard are complementary not alternative to contractual and applicable statutory and regulatory requirements Should there be a conflict between the requirements of this standard and applicable statutory or regulatory requirements the latter shall take precedence The process approach described in ISO 9001 and AS9100 applies to this standard This standard has been revised using AS9100 2009 as the baseline document AS9100 2009 requirements applicable to noncomplex products and manufacturing processes have been incorporated into this standard and modified as necessary to reflect the intent of this standard The standard s

clauses have been renumbered accordingly Quality Management Systems - Requirements for Aviation Maintenance Organizations G-14 Americas Aerospace Quality Standards Committee (AAQSC), 2012 This standard includes ISO 9001 20081 quality management system requirements and specifies additional aviation maintenance industry requirements definitions and notes as shown in bold italic text NOTE Baseline aviation maintenance requirements originate from IAQG developed 9100 2009 standard modifications were made as required to address maintenance industry specific requirements It is emphasized that the requirements specified in this standard are complementary not alternative to contractual and applicable statutory and regulatory requirements Should there be a conflict between the requirements of this standard and applicable statutory or regulatory requirements the latter shall take precedence This International Standard specifies requirements for a quality management system where an organization needs to demonstrate its ability to consistently provide product that meets customer and applicable statutory and regulatory requirements and aims to enhance customer satisfaction through the effective application of the system including processes for continual improvement of the system and the assurance of conformity to customer and applicable statutory and regulatory requirements NOTE 1 In this International Standard the term product only applies to a product intended for or required by a customer any intended output resulting from the product realization processes NOTE 2 Statutory and regulatory requirements can be expressed as legal requirements This standard has been revised to address stakeholder needs through the addition of definitions and clarification of existing requirements to resolve interpretation issues and incorporate editorial corrections
