Envy, Poison, and Death Esther Eidinow, 2016 At the heart of this volume are three trials held in Athens in the fourth century BCE The defendants were all women and in each case the charges involved a combination of ritual activities Two were condemned to death Because of the brevity of the ancient sources and their lack of agreement the precise charges are unclear and the reasons for taking these women to court remain mysterious Envy Poison and Death takes the complexity and confusion of the evidence not as a riddle to be solved but as revealing multiple social dynamics It explores the changing factors material ideological and psychological that may have provoked these events It focuses in particular on the dual role of envy phthonos and gossip as processes by which communities identified people and activities that were dangerous and examines how and why those local even individual dynamics may have come to shape official civic decisions during a time of perceived hardship At first sight so puzzling these trials reveal a vivid picture of the socio political environment of Athens during the early mid fourth century BCE including responses to changes in women s status and behaviour and attitudes to ritual activities within the city The volume reveals some of the characters events and even emotions that would help to shape an emergent concept of magic it suggests that the boundary of acceptable behaviour was shifting not only within the legal arena but also through the active involvement of society beyond the courts
