Developing Negotiation Case Studies Harvard Business School:

Research Anthology on Developing Critical Thinking Skills in Students Management Association, Information Resources, 2020-10-02 Learning strategies for critical thinking are a vital part of today's curriculum as students have few additional opportunities to learn these skills outside of school environments. Therefore, it is essential that educators be given practical strategies for improving their critical thinking skills as well as methods to effectively provide critical thinking skills to their students. The Research Anthology on Developing Critical Thinking Skills in Students is a vital reference source that helps to shift and advance the debate on how critical thinking should be taught and offers insights into the significance of critical thinking and its effective integration as a cornerstone of the educational system. Highlighting a range of topics such as discourse analysis, skill assessment and measurement, and critical analysis techniques, this multi-volume book is ideally designed for teachers, instructors, instructional designers, curriculum developers, education professionals, administrators, policymakers, researchers, and academicians.

Developing Negotiation Case Studies James K. Sebenius, Harvard Business School, 2010 While a great deal of excellent advice exists for producing case studies on managerially relevant topics in general, negotiation cases have distinctive aspects that merit explicit treatment. This article offers three types of tailored advice for producing cases on negotiation and related topics such as mediation and diplomacy that are primarily intended for classroom discussion: 1) how to decide whether a negotiation-related case lead is worth developing; 2) how to choose the perspective and case type most suited to one's objectives; and 3) in by far the longest part of the discussion, ten nuts and bolts suggestions for structuring and producing an excellent negotiation case study.

Case Studies in US Trade Negotiation: Making the rules Charan Devereaux, Robert Z. Lawrence, Michael Watkins, 2006 Volume 1 of this series presents five cases on trade negotiations that have had important effects on trade policy rulemaking and an analytic framework for evaluating these negotiations. Jacket.

Case Studies in US Trade Negotiation Volume 2 Charan Devereaux, Robert Z. Lawrence, Michael D. Watkins, 2006-09-01 Between 1992 and 2000, US exports rose by 55 percent. By the year 2000, trade summed to 26 percent of US GDP, and the United States imported almost two thirds of its oil and was the world's largest host country for foreign investors. America's interest in a more open and prosperous foreign market is now squarely economic. These case studies in multilateral trade policymaking and dispute settlement explore the changing substance of trade agreements and also delve into the negotiation process: the who, how, and why of decision making. These books present a coherent description of the facts that will allow for discussion and independent conclusions about policies, politics, and processes. Volume 2 presents five cases on trade negotiations that have had important effects on trade policy rulemaking as well as an analytic framework for evaluating these negotiations.

Negotiating Financial Agreement in East Asia Kaewkamol Karen Pitakdumrongkit, 2015-10-30 Every international negotiation bears a risk of collapse as even among like minded countries different players often have different priorities and interests This can result in conflict as states clash over certain agreement details and their disputes can escalate and founder the entire negotiation missing an opportunity to realize potential initiatives However other circumstances have witnessed the cases of successful deals This begets a puzzle What did these states do to salvage their talks and seal their deals This book examines East Asian financial negotiation processes and seeks to explain why some negotiations are successful despite the risk of bargaining failure Using the Chiang Mai Initiative Multilateralization CMIM talks as the case study the book analyses how states with little prior experience at dealing with certain aspects of an agreement manage to avert negotiation failure and successfully conclude their final deal Using extensive archival research in depth interviews with involved negotiators and experts and process tracing method it reconstructs the making of the CMIM agreement The multi country analysis reveals the roles played by key actors namely China Japan South Korea Indonesia Malaysia and Thailand in shaping the agreement terms The book goes on to argue that preventing a stalemate or succeeding in concluding arrangements like the CMIM is a product of various strategies and tactics employed by negotiators These include employing bargaining strategies and tactics that help avoid a negotiation deadlock and assessing the conditions under which such strategies and tactics are likely or unlikely to achieve the objective of avoiding bargaining failure As a study of East Asian economic negotiation processes this book will be of huge interest to students and scholars of East Asian cooperation and regionalism as well as finance international business international relations and international political economy
