The Evolution of Rhythm Cognition: Timing in Music and Speech Andrea Ravignani, Henkjan Honing, Sonja A. Kotz, 2018-07-24 Human speech and music share a number of similarities and differences One of the closest similarities is their temporal nature as both i develop over time ii form sequences of temporal intervals possibly differing in duration and acoustical marking by different spectral properties which are perceived as a rhythm and iii generate metrical expectations Human brains are particularly efficient in perceiving producing and processing fine rhythmic information in music and speech However a number of critical questions remain to be answered Where does this human sensitivity for rhythm arise How did rhythm cognition develop in human evolution How did environmental rhythms affect the evolution of brain rhythms Which rhythm specific neural circuits are shared between speech and music or even with other domains Evolutionary processes long time scales often prevent direct observation understanding the psychology of rhythm and its evolution requires a close fitting integration of different perspectives First empirical observations of music and speech in the field are contrasted and generate testable hypotheses Experiments exploring linguistic and musical rhythm are performed across sensory modalities ages and animal species to address questions about domain specificity development and an evolutionary path of rhythm Finally experimental insights are integrated via synthetic modeling generating testable predictions about brain oscillations underlying rhythm cognition and its evolution Our understanding of the cognitive neurobiological and evolutionary bases of rhythm is rapidly increasing However researchers in different fields often work on parallel potentially converging strands with little mutual awareness This research topic builds a bridge across several disciplines focusing on the cognitive neuroscience of rhythm as an evolutionary process It includes contributions encompassing although not limited to 1 developmental and comparative studies of rhythm e g critical acquisition periods innateness 2 evidence of rhythmic behavior in other species both spontaneous and in controlled experiments 3 comparisons of rhythm processing in music and speech e g behavioral experiments systems neuroscience perspectives on music speech networks 4 evidence on rhythm processing across modalities and domains 5 studies on rhythm in interaction and context social affective etc 6 mathematical and computational e g connectionist symbolic models of rhythmicity as an evolved behavior

Adjustment and Growth, with eBook Access Code Spencer A. Rathus, Jeffrey S. Nevid, 2025-03-18 Brings theory and research together to help students adapt to sources of stress in their everyday and academic lives Adjustment and Growth Psychology and the Challenges of Life reveals the many ways that psychology relates to our lives while illustrating how psychological concepts and principles can help us adapt to the real world issues we face With a lively and conversational writing style authors Spencer Rathus and Jeffrey Nevid show us how to apply psychology to confront a variety of life challenges such as managing time developing self identity building and maintaining relationships adopting healthier lifestyles coping with stress strengthening financial responsibility and dealing with emotional problems and psychological disorders Each easy to follow chapter begins with Did You Know That a series of engaging and thought provoking questions that pique the reader s interest before they dive into the chapter The modular format of the textbook helps students organize their study time by presenting information in manageable units and providing brief Review Questions at the end of each section to enable self evaluating mastery of learning objectives Now in its fifteenth edition this market leading textbook is fully updated to meet the needs and concerns of the next generation of students Expanded chapters address psychology in the digital age social media sexuality and gender stress and the immune system and the current opioid crisis An entirely new chapter covers adapting to contemporary sources of stress such as social and political tensions public health in light of the COVID 19 crisis gun violence and mass shootings climate change the treatment of immigrant and migrant families Promoting Mental Health and Wellbeing Among Young People Maj Britt Dahl Nielsen,Susan Andersen,Sigurd Lauridsen,2025-09-10 Mental disorders account for a large proportion of the disease burden in young people and poor mental health is strongly related to lower educational achievements and labor market attainment and other health problems including substance abuse violence and poor reproductive and sexual health Evidence suggests that the COVID 19 pandemic might have had a negative effect on young people s mental health and knowledge about secular trends in well being and mental health problems is important for planning public health interventions Research on health promotion and preventive interventions remains scarce and the mental health needs of young people are often unmet and research is urgently needed to develop affordable and feasible interventions In Denmark and other countries the mental health of young people has been declining especially in the wake of COVID 19 The main goal of this research topic is to further our understanding of trends in mental health and well being among young people and aid the development of feasible and effective public health interventions This Research Topic welcomes empirical studies including qualitative quantitative and mixed method research design papers and systematic reviews focusing on but not limited to the following sub topics Trends in mental health and well being among young people The impact of COVID 19 on mental health and wellbeing New and emerging risks for mental health and well being for example related to online and mobile technology Barriers to treatment Development of affordable and feasible community based interventions Implementation and effectiveness of preventive and health promotion interventions including universal interventions and interventions targeting vulnerable groups Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science, Theory and Method ,2015-04-06 The essential reference for human development theory updated and reconceptualized The Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science a four volume reference is the field defining work to which all others are compared First published in 1946 and now in its Seventh Edition the Handbook has long been considered the definitive guide to the field of developmental science Volume 1 Theory and Method presents a rich mix of classic and contemporary theoretical perspectives but the dominant views throughout are marked by an emphasis on the dynamic interplay of all facets of the developmental system across the life span incorporating the range of biological cognitive emotional social cultural and ecological levels of analysis Examples of the theoretical approaches discussed in the volume include those pertinent to human evolution self regulation the development of dynamic skills and positive youth development The research methodological and applied implications of the theoretical models discussed in the volume are presented Understand the contributions of biology person and context to development within the embodied ecological system Discover the relations among individual the social world culture and history that constitute human development Examine the methods of dynamic developmental research Learn person oriented methodological approaches to assessing developmental change The scholarship within this volume and as well across the four volumes of this edition illustrate that developmental science is in the midst of a very exciting period There is a paradigm shift that involves increasingly greater understanding of how to describe explain and optimize the course of human life for diverse individuals living within diverse contexts This Handbook is the definitive reference for educators policy makers researchers students and practitioners in human development psychology sociology anthropology and neuroscience
