Cities And The Grand Tour The British In Italy C 16901820:

Cities and the Grand Tour Rosemary Sweet,2012-10-04 A fascinating study of how British travellers experienced described and represented the cities they visited on the Grand Tour The Grand Tour Diary of Frederica Murray, 1819-1820 Mark Guscini,2024-01-15 In 1819 the Murray family set out on one of the last Grand Tours before railways forever changed the way people travelled The eldest daughter of the Second Earl of Mansfield Lady Frederica Murray later Stanhope as she married James Hamilton Stanhope the youngest son of the 3rd Earl of Stanhope kept a diary on the tour which this book explores in detail The diary has never been published not even mentioned in any of the Grand Tour literature and is a fascinating and essential look at the Murray Mansfield family and Europe at the time Frederica was a deeply observant traveller and noted down numerous picturesque and historical details she was also very open and sometimes even cutting in her opinions when she came across something or someone she did not like Frederica's diary shows a very mature 19 year old with clear opinions on art literature and the world around her This book will therefore be interesting for scholars of travel Grand Tours and Regency England and its society as well as anyone with an interest in travel and history The Jacobites and the Grand Tour J  r  my Filet,2025-04-22 In the first monograph to fully examine the intersecting networks of Jacobites and travellers to the continent Filet considers how small states used official diplomacy and deployed soft power embodied by educational academies to achieve foreign policy goals This work uses little known archival materials to explain how and why certain small states secretly supported the Jacobite cause during the crucial years surrounding the 1715 rising while others stayed out of Jacobite affairs At the same time the book demonstrates how early modern small states sought to cultivate good relations with Britain by attracting travellers as part of a wider trend of ensuring connections with future diplomats or politicians in case a Stuart restoration never came This publication therefore brings together a study of Britain small states Jacobitism and educational travel in its nexus at continental academies Describing the City, Describing the State Sandra Toffolo,2020-07-15 In Describing the City Describing the State Sandra Toffolo presents a comprehensive analysis of descriptions of the city of Venice and the Venetian Terraferma in the Renaissance when the Venetian mainland state was being created Working with an extensive variety of descriptions the book demonstrates that no one narrative of Venice prevailed in the early modern European imagination and that authors continuously adapted geographical descriptions to changing political circumstances This in turn illustrates the importance of studying geographical representation and early modern state formation together Moreover it challenges the long standing concept of the myth of Venice by showing that Renaissance observers never saw the city of Venice and the Venetian Terraferma in a monolithic way Mistress Anthony Fletcher,Ruth M. Larsen,2025-08-05 An insightful hugely engaging new history of elite women and the country house from the sixteenth to the twentieth century Grand houses can be found across the countryside of England and Wales From the Stuart and Georgian periods to the Edwardian and Victorian these buildings were once home to the aristocratic families of the nation But what was life like for the mistresses of these great houses How much power and influence did they really have Anthony Fletcher and Ruth M Larsen explore the lives of country house mistresses Focusing on eighteen women and spanning five centuries they look at the ways in which elite women not only shaped the house household and family but also had an impact on society culture and politics within their estates and beyond We meet Brilliana Harley who defended her castle at Brampton Bryan Frances Boscawen who oversaw the building of Hatchlands and Lady Mary Elcho who preserved her secret life as mistress to Arthur Balfour This is a fascinating account of the country house that puts women s experiences centre stage

European Fans in the 17th and 18th Centuries Miriam Volmert,Danijela Bucher,2019-12-02 In 17th and 18th century Europe folding fans were important socially coded fashion accessories In the course of the 18th century painted and printed fan leaves displayed an increasing variety of visual motifs and artistic subject matter while many of them also addressed contemporary political and social topics This book studies the visual and material diversity of fans from an interdisciplinary perspective The individual essays analyze fans in the context of the fine and applied arts discussing the role of fans in cultures of communication and examining them as souvenir objects and vehicles for political and social messages

The Piranesi Effect Kerriane Stone,Gerard Vaughan,2015-08-01 The work of Italian printmaker Giovanni Battista Piranesi 1720 1778 has captivated artists architects and designers for centuries Although contemporary Australia is a long way from eighteenth century Rome it is home to substantial collections of his works the largest being at the State Library of Victoria and the University of Melbourne The Piranesi Effect is a collection of exquisitely illustrated essays on the impact of Piranesi s work throughout the years The book brings together Australian and international experts who investigate Piranesi s world and its connections to the study of art and the practice of artists today From curators and art historians to contemporary artists like Bill Henson and Ron McBurnie the contributors each bring their own passion and insight into the work of Piranesi illuminating what it is about his work that still inspires such wonder

Travelling Notions of Culture in Early Nineteenth-Century Europe Hannu Salmi, Asko Nivala, Jukka Sarjala, 2015-10-23 The notions of culture and civilization are at the heart of European self image This book focuses on how space and spatiality contributed to defining the concepts of culture and civilization and conversely what kind of spatial ramifications culture and civilization entailed These questions have vital importance to the understanding of this formative period of modern Europe The chapters of this volume concentrate on the following themes What were the sites of culture civilization and Bildung and how were these sites employed in defining these concepts What kind of borders did this process of definition and its inherent spatial imagination produce What were the connecting routes between the supposed centers and peripheries What were the strategies of envisioning negotiating and transforming cultural territories in early nineteenth century Europe This book adds new perspectives on ways of approaching spatiality in history by investigating for example the decisive role of the French revolution the persistent interest in classical civilization and its sites emerging urbanism and the culture of the cities the changing constellations between centers and peripheries and the colonial extensions or transfigurations of culture It also pays attention to the spatiality of culture as a metaphor but simultaneously emphasizes the production of space in an era of technological innovation and change

Gothic Antiquity Dale Townshend, 2019-09-19 Gothic Antiquity History Romance and the Architectural Imagination 1760 1840 provides the first sustained scholarly account of the relationship between Gothic architecture and Gothic literature fiction poetry drama in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Although the relationship between literature and architecture is a topic that has long preoccupied scholars of the literary Gothic there remains to date no monograph length study of the intriguing and complex interactions between these two aesthetic forms Equally Gothic literature has received only the most cursory of treatments in art historical accounts of the early Gothic Revival in architecture interiors and design In addressing this gap in contemporary scholarship Gothic Antiquity seeks to situate Gothic writing in relation to the Gothic architectural theories aesthetics and practices with which it was contemporary providing closely historicized readings of a wide selection of canonical and lesser known texts and writers Correspondingly it shows how these architectural debates responded to and were to a certain extent shaped by what we have since come to identify as the literary Gothic mode In both its survivalist and revivalist forms the architecture of the Middle Ages in the long eighteenth century was always much more than a matter of style Incarnating for better or for worse the memory of a vanished Gothic age in the modern enlightened present Gothic architecture be it ruined or complete prompted imaginative reconstructions of the nation s past a notable visionary turn as the antiquary John Pinkerton put it in 1788 in which Gothic writers architects and antiquaries enthusiastically participated The volume establishes a series of dialogues between Gothic literature architectural history and the antiquarian interest in the material remains of the Gothic past and argues that these discrete yet intimately related approaches to vernacular antiquity are most fruitfully read in relation to one another

Male Professionals in Nineteenth Century Britain

Laurence Brockliss, Harry Smith, 2024-07-12 Male Professionals in Nineteenth Century Britain is the first statistically based social cultural and familial history of a fast growing and socially prominent section of the Victorian propertied classes. It is built around a representative cohort of 750 men who were recorded in the 1851 census as practising a profession in eight British provincial towns with distinctive economic and social profiles: Brighton, Bristol, Dundee, Greenock, Leeds, Merthyr Tydfil, Winchester, and the twin county town of Northumberland, Alnwick, Morpeth. The book provides a collective account of the cohort's lives and the lives of their families across four generations, starting with their parents and ending with their grandchildren. It touches on the history of 16,000 individuals. The book aims to throw light on the extent to which nineteenth century professionals had a distinctive socio-cultural profile, as sociologists and some historians have claimed, or were largely indistinguishable from other members of propertied society, as most historians today assume, without further investigation. In exploring this question, particular attention is paid to the cohort's families, wealth, household size, education, occupational history, geographical mobility, and broader involvement in society, measured by their members' choice of marriage partner, their kinship and friendship circles, their political allegiance, and their leisure activities. The book demonstrates that male professionals in the Victorian era were far from being a homogenous group but were divided in many ways. The most important was wealth, which played a key role in the social and occupational fortunes of their descendants. These divisions largely explain why some professionals and some individual professions were much more likely to display endogenous characteristics than others. The book also demonstrates that even the most successful professional families got poorer over time and reveals how easily, in the age of industrialisation, branches of families and sometimes complete families could drop out of the elite.

Beyond the Grand Tour

Rosemary Sweet, Gerrit Verhoeven, Sarah Goldsmith, 2017-02-17 Travel in early modern Europe is frequently represented as synonymous with the institution of the Grand Tour, a journey undertaken by elite young males from northern Europe to the centres of the arts and antiquity in Italy. Taking a somewhat different perspective, this volume builds upon recent research that pushes beyond this narrow orthodoxy and which decentres Italy as the ultimate destination of European travellers. Instead, it explores a much broader pattern of travel undertaken by people of varied backgrounds and with divergent motives for travelling. By tapping into current reactions against the reification of the Grand Tour as a unique and distinctive practice, this volume represents an important contribution to the ongoing process of resituating the Grand Tour as part of a wider context of travel and topographical writing. Focusing upon practices of travel in northern and western Europe rather than in Italy, particularly in Britain, the Low Countries, and Germany, the essays in this collection highlight how itineraries continually evolved in response to changing political, economic, and intellectual contexts. In so doing, the reasons for travel in northern Europe are subjected to a similar level of detailed analysis as has previously only been directed on Italy. By doing this, the volume demonstrates the variety of travel experiences, including the many shorter journeys made for pleasure health education and business undertaken by travellers of varying age and background across the period In this way the volume brings to the fore the experiences of varied categories of traveller from children to businessmen which have traditionally been largely invisible in the historiography of travel

Domestic Space in Britain, 1750-1840 Freya Gowrley, 2022-03-10 Between 1750 and 1840 the home took on unprecedented social and emotional significance Focusing on the design decoration and reception of a range of elite and middling class homes from this period Domestic Space in Britain 1750 1840 demonstrates that the material culture of domestic life was central to how this function of the home was experienced expressed and understood at this time Examining craft production and collection gift exchange and written description inheritance and loss it carefully unpacks the material processes that made the home a focus for contemporaries social and emotional lives The first book on its subject Domestic Space in Britain 1750 1840 employs methodologies from both art history and material culture studies to examine previously unpublished interiors spaces texts images and objects Utilising extensive archival research visual material and textual analysis and histories of emotion sociability and materiality it sheds light on the decoration and reception of a broad array of domestic spaces In so doing it writes a new history of late eighteenth and early nineteenth century domestic space establishing the materiality of the home as a crucial site for identity formation social interaction and emotional expression

Language and the Grand Tour Arturo Tosi, 2020-04-02 Language is still a relatively under researched aspect of the Grand Tour This book offers a comprehensive introduction enriched by the amusing stories and vivid quotations collected from travellers writings providing crucial insights into the rise of modern vernaculars and the standardisation of European languages

The Warm South Robert Holland, 2018-01-01 An evocative exploration of the impact of the Mediterranean on British culture ranging from the mid eighteenth century to today Ever since the age of the Grand Tour in the eighteenth century the Mediterranean has had a significant pull for Britons including many painters and poets who sought from it the inspiration beauty and fulfillment that evaded them at home Referred to as Magick Land by one traveler dreams about the Mediterranean and responses to it went on to shape the culture of a nation Written by one of the world s leading historians of the Mediterranean this book charts how a new sensibility arose from British engagement with the Mediterranean ancient and modern Ranging from Byron s poetry to Damien Hirst s installations Robert Holland shows that while idealized visions and aspirations often met with disillusionment and frustration the Mediterranean also offered a notably insular society the chance to enrich itself through an imagined world of color carnival and sensual self discovery

The United Kingdom and Spain in the Eighteenth Century Manuel-Reyes García Hurtado, 2024-09-23 This book seeks to bridge a gap in the historiography of Spain and Great Britain by arguing that while the eighteenth century witnessed periods of tension conflict and hostility between the two powers their relationship remained multifaceted and significant in other spheres Throughout the eighteenth century Spain and Great Britain passed through phases of open warfare armed peace and deep suspicion The British capture of Gibraltar and

Menorca dealt a severe blow to the newly established Bourbon dynasty in Spain Even in times of war however not all communication channels were closed with numerous formal and informal contacts being made despite the volatile political climate and enmities The contributors of this book go beyond the well known animosity and conflicts to explore the spectrum of interactions encompassing cultural exchange traditional diplomacy trade and espionage plus a multitude of other facets This book is a valuable resource for researchers and students interested in the complex relations between Great Britain and Spain during the eighteenth century as well as for a broader audience of historians and both undergraduate and postgraduate students of history and international relations

A Companion to Medieval and Renaissance Bologna, 2017-11-20 Long neglected by scholars medieval and Renaissance Bologna is now recognized as a center of economic political constitutional legal and intellectual innovation as the city that served as the cultural crossroads of Italy The city's distinctive achievements and its transition from medieval commune to second largest city of the Renaissance Papal State is illuminated by essays that present the work of current historians many made available in English for the first time from the broadest possible perspective from the material city with its porticoes the conflicts that brought bloodshed and turmoil to its streets the disputations of masters and students and to the masterpieces of artists who laid the foundations for Baroque art See inside the book

Consumption and the Country House Jon Stobart, Mark Rothery, 2016-06-02 This study explores the consumption practices of the landed aristocracy of Georgian England Focussing on three families and drawing on detailed analysis of account books receipted bills household inventories diaries and correspondence Consumption and the Country House charts the spending patterns of this elite group during the so called consumer revolution of the eighteenth century Generally examined through the lens of middling families homes and motivations this book explores the ways in which the aristocracy were engaged in this wider transformation of English society Analysis centres on the goods that the aristocracy purchased both luxurious and mundane the extent to which they pursued fashionable modes and goods the role that family and friends played in shaping notions of taste the influence of gender on taste and refinement the geographical reach of provisioning and the networks that lay behind this consumer activity and the way this all contributed to the construction of the country house The country house thus emerges as much more than a repository of luxury and splendour it lay at the heart of complex networks of exchange sociability demand and supply Exploring these processes and relationships serves to reanimate the country house making it an active site of consumption rather than simply an expression of power and taste and drawing it into the mainstream of consumption histories At the same time the landed aristocracy are shown to be rounded consumers driven by values of thrift and restraint as much as extravagant desires and valuing the old as well as the new not least as markers of their pedigree and heritage

Travellers in Eighteenth Century Europe Julie Peakman, 2025-01-16 Travellers in Eighteenth Century Europe is an edited collection with contributions by leading scholars brought together by a prolific author with expertise in eighteenth century culture The Grand Tour was considered a part of the education of a young gentleman Travellers included blossoming scholars poets writers and scientists Visits were made to Greece and Italy via France and Switzerland often taking in Turkey But women also traveled extensively though these accounts have been under explored The book will examine first hand accounts of the impact of foreign travel on both women and men seen through their letters travel diaries journals and their creative response in poems music and art Its originality is seen in its exploration of a comparison between the views of women and men abroad and the differences in what they deemed interesting and worthy of comment The book is especially relevant in light of the many past and current xenophobic views of the foreigner Here we more often see travellers viewing their experience of otherness and exoticism in a positive light a cultural appreciation rather than a cultural appropriation This book examines how men and women saw these new worlds opening up before them what delighted them what influenced them and their interaction with others in the light of domesticity antiquity politics work science sex and friendships Cities and the Grand Tour Rosemary Sweet, 2012-10-04

How did eighteenth century travellers experience describe and represent the urban environments they encountered as they made the Grand Tour This fascinating book focuses on the changing responses of the British to the cities of Florence Rome Naples and Venice during a period of unprecedented urbanisation at home Drawing on a wide range of unpublished material including travel accounts written by women Rosemary Sweet explores how travel literature helped to create and perpetuate the image of a city what the different meanings and imaginative associations attached to these cities were and how the contrasting descriptions of each of these cities reflected the travellers own attitudes to urbanism More broadly the book explores the construction and performance of personal gender and national identities and the shift in cultural values away from neo classicism towards medievalism and the gothic which is central to our understanding of eighteenth century culture and the transition to modernity
