Leadership and Learning Lyndon Pugh, 2001 Despite the proliferation of cyber this and digital that many people prefer to learn by face to face communication and to acquire job related skills and knowledge in their own workplace Why Perhaps because the abilities to talk listen and explain clearly in short to communicate are given equal shrift Or because a fostering of these abilities is the responsibility of everyone in that workplace Or even because pragmatically speaking such training can be done easily with a minimum of infrastructure and support Whatever the reason Lyndon Pugh's Practical Training Techniques speaks plainly and persuasively of the dynamic relationship between trainer and learner It argues for the use of traditional training techniques based on classical ideas describing a process that owes as much to Aristotle as to modern gurus such as Blanchard Naisbitt and Tapscott Traditional training claims Pugh is uniquely placed to meet the learning requirements of modern organizations precisely because such organizations value on site ongoing development over off site just in time approaches And while technology undoubtedly can improve the lot of trainers as well as the efficiency of the learning process belief in its efficacy as the primary channel for learning delivery is by no means universal Practical Training Techniques takes the experts out of learning and can be used by just about anyone who needs to train just about anyone else to do well just about anything The Journal for Quality and Participation, 2003 Becoming an Effective Leader, Coach and Mentor EBOOK BUNDLE Brian Tracy, Jack Canfield, William J.
