Metaphor Wars Raymond W. Gibbs, Jr, 2017-05-04 The study of metaphor is now firmly established as a central topic within cognitive science and the humanities We marvel at the creative dexterity of gifted speakers and writers for their special talents in both thinking about certain ideas in new ways and communicating these thoughts in vivid poetic forms Yet metaphors may not only be special communicative devices but a fundamental part of everyday cognition in the form of conceptual metaphors. An enormous body of empirical evidence from cognitive linguistics and related disciplines has emerged detailing how conceptual metaphors underlie significant aspects of language, thought, cultural and expressive action. Despite its influence and popularity, there have been major criticisms of conceptual metaphor. This book offers an evaluation of the arguments and empirical evidence for and against conceptual metaphors, much of which scholars on both sides of the wars fail to properly acknowledge.

Cognitive Linguistics - The Quantitative Turn Laura A. Janda, 2013-07-31. Designed to serve as a textbook for courses in statistical analysis in linguistics, this book orients the reader to various quantitative methods and explains their implications for the field. The methods include chi square, Fisher test, binomial test, ANOVA, correlation, regression, and cluster analysis. The advantages and limitations of each method are detailed, and each method is illustrated with exemplary articles presenting linguistic data.

The Sparkle from the Coal Barbara Howard, 2024-10-31. Perhaps one of the least appreciated aspects of Rowan Williams is his theology of imagination. Seeking to fill this gap, this book explores the imaginative impulse operative in Rowan Williams' theology and poetry, which centres around the notion of divine desire and the way in which imagination can reveal possibility even in the bleakest of circumstances. Drawing on his poetic work as well as his theological writing, the book explores how Williams' theology leads us to a fresh understanding of the ways in which the renewing and enabling energy of the Holy Spirit is ever active within and beyond the Church, in enabling human imaginations to cooperate with the divine energy of love in bringing creation to fulfilment.

Producing Figurative Expression John Barnden, Andrew Gargett, 2020-12-15. This collection contains a selection of recent work on people's production of figurative language: metaphoric, ironic, metonymic, hyperbolic, and similarly of figurative expression in visual media and artefact design. The articles illuminate issues such as why and under what circumstances people produce figurative expression and how it is moulded by their aims. By focusing on production, the intention is to help stimulate more academic research on it and redress historically lower levels of published work on generation than on understanding of figurative expression. The contributions stretch across various academic disciplines, mainly psychology, cognitive linguistics, and applied linguistics, but with a representation also of philosophy and artificial intelligence, and across different types of endeavour: theoretical investigation and model building, experimental studies, and applications focussed work, for instance, figurative expression in product design and online support groups. There is also a wide-ranging introductory chapter that touches on areas outside the scope of the contributed articles and discusses difficult issues such as a complex interplay of production and understanding.

relationship between language culture and cognition Meaning in the Brain Giosue Baggio, 2018-07-24 An argument that the meaning of written or auditory linguistic signals is not derived from the input but results from the brain's internal construction process. When we read a text or listen to speech, meaning seems to be given to us instantaneously as if it were part of the input. In Meaning in the Brain, Giosue Baggio explains that this is an illusion created by the tremendous speed at which sensory systems and systems for meaning and grammar operate in the brain. Baggio argues that meaning is not derived from input but results from the brain's internal construction process. With this book, Baggio offers the first integrated multilevel theory of semantics in the brain, describing how meaning is generated during language comprehension, production, and acquisition. Baggio's theory draws on recent advances in formal semantics and pragmatics, including vector space semantics, discourse representation theory, and signaling game theory. It is designed to explain a growing body of experimental results on semantic processing that have accumulated in the absence of a unifying theory since the introduction of electrophysiology and neuroimaging methods. Baggio argues that there is evidence for the existence of three semantic systems in the brain: relational semantics, interpretive semantics, and evolutionary semantics, and he discusses each in turn. He also develops neural theories of meaning for all three. Moreover, in the course of his argument, Baggio addresses several long-standing issues in the neuroscience of language, including the role of compositionality as a principle of meaning construction in the brain, the role of sensory-motor processes in language comprehension, and the neural and evolutionary links among meaning, consciousness, sociality, and action. Symposium, 2007 A Lifetime of English Studies Fiona Dalziel, Sara Gesuato, Maria Teresa Musacchio, 2012 Encyclopedia of Behavioral Neuroscience: H-O George F. Koob, Michel Le Moal, Richard F. Thompson, 2010
