theory traditionally links modernity to the city to the historical emergence of certain forms of subjectivity and the rise of important developments in culture arts and architecture This is often in response to technological economic and societal transformations in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries in select Euro American metropolises In contrast non Western cities in the modern period are often considered through the lens of Westernization and development How do we account for urban modernity in other cities This book seeks to highlight cultural creativity by examining the diverse and shifting ways Istanbulites have defined themselves while they debate imagine build and consume their city It focuses on a series of exhibitionary sites from print press photography cinema films exhibitions of architectural heritage theme parks and museums and explores the links between these popular depictions through shared practices of representation In doing so it argues that understanding how the future is imagined through images and interpretations of the past can broaden current theoretical thinking about Istanbul and other cities In line with postcolonial calls for a comparative urbanism that decouples understanding of the modern from its privileged association with Western cities this book offers a new perspective on the lens of urban modernity It will appeal to urban geographers and historians cultural studies scholars art historians and anthropologists as well as planners architects and artists

Time, the City, and the Literary Imagination Anne-Marie Evans, Kaley Kramer, 2020-11-18 Time the City and the Literary Imagination explores the relationship between the constructions and representations of the relationship between time and the city in literature published between the late eighteenth century and the present This collection offers a new way of reading the literary city by tracing the ways in which the relationship between time and urban space can shape literary narratives and forms The essays consider the representation of a range of literary cities from across the world and consider how an understanding of time and time passing can impact on our understanding of the primary texts Literature necessarily deals with time both as a function of storytelling and as an experience of reading In this volume the contributions demonstrate how literature about cities brings to the forefront the relationship between individual and communal experience and time

Orhan Pamuk Taner Can, Berkan Ulu, Koray Melikoglu, 2017-07-25 This collection of essays brings together scholarly examinations of a writer who despite the prestige that the Nobel Prize has earned him remains controversial with respect to his place in the literary tradition of his home country This is in part because the positioning of Turkey itself in relation to the cultural divide between East and West has been the subject of a debate going back to the beginnings of the modern Turkish state and earlier The present essays written mostly by literary scholars range widely across Pamuk's novelistic oeuvre dealing with how the writer often adding an allegorical level to the personages depicted in his experimental narratives portrays tensions such as those between Western secularism and traditional Islam and different conceptions of national identity
