Applied Econometric Analysis Using Cross Section and Panel Data Deep Mukherjee, 2024-01-03 This book is a collection of 20 chapters on chosen topics from cross section and panel data econometrics It explores both theoretical and practical aspects of selected cutting edge techniques which are gaining popularity among applied econometricians while following the motto of keeping things simple Each chapter gives a basic introduction to one such method directs readers to supplementary references and shows an application The book takes into account that A The field of econometrics is evolving very fast and leading textbooks are trying to cover some of the recent developments in revised editions This book offers basic introduction to state of the art techniques and recent advances in econometric models with detailed applications from various developing and developed countries B An applied researcher or practitioner may prefer reference books with a simple introduction to an advanced econometric method or model with no theorems but with a longer discussion on empirical application Thus an applied econometrics textbook covering these cutting edge methods is highly warranted a void this book attempts to fills The book does not aim at providing a comprehensive coverage of econometric methods The 20 chapters in this book represent only a sample of the important topics in modern econometrics with special focus on econometrics of cross section and panel data while also recognizing that it is not possible to accommodate all types of models and methods even in these two categories The book is unique as authors have also provided the theoretical background if any and brief literature review behind the empirical applications It is a must have resource for students and practitioners of modern econometrics

Seven Decades of Econometrics and Beyond Badi H. Baltagi, László Mátyás, 2025-05-17 This volume honors the life and legacy of renowned economist and econometrician Marc Nerlove who passed away in July 2024 His influential contributions to the field have left a lasting impact on econometrics and the broader economics profession The book features high quality original research across various domains of theoretical and applied econometrics reflecting Nerlove's broad range of interests It includes survey chapters that provide valuable insights into key areas of econometrics enhancing readers understanding of important topics Where relevant personal tributes and reflections on Marc Nerlove's work are thoughtfully interwoven into the chapters This volume offers cutting edge findings in panel data analysis agricultural population and spatial economics income inequality and more The diversity of topics discussed highlights the profound and far reaching influence of Marc Nerlove's career on the field of economics

Economics and Ageing José Luis Iparraguirre, 2018-12-05 This upper level textbook provides a coherent introduction to the economic implications of individual and population ageing Placing economic considerations into a wider social sciences context this is ideal reading not only for advanced undergraduate and masters students in economics health economics and the economics of ageing but also policy makers students professionals and practitioners in gerontology sociology health related sciences and social care This volume discusses the fiscal implications of ageing health economics and long term care Fiscal policy issues include generational accounting and national transfer accounts the relationship between ageing public expenditure and fiscal policy the age profiles of public expenditures and taxes and the relationship between ageing capital and labour taxation Health economics with regard to ageing comprises healthy and disability free life expectancy the relationship between health inequalities and age the macroeconomic implications of population health the socio economic determinants of health the interaction between ageing and both individual and aggregate health expenditure and economic approaches to valuing later life This volume closes with an exposition of the economics of formal and informal care as well as questions around insurance risk and the so called sandwich generation

Entrepreneurship and Intrapreneurship in Social, Sustainable, and Economic Development Sebastian Aparicio, Andreu Turro, Maria Noguera, 2021-01-25 Entrepreneurship and intrapreneurship have become a vehicle that offers solutions for social environmental and economic problems Even though the level of entrepreneurial activity and its diversity have been motivated through public policies social support has also played an important role in encouraging people to think of entrepreneurship as a desirable career choice This book brings together analyses of those elements required for entrepreneurial and intrapreneurial intention and action which ultimately become important leverages of development

Chapters highlight the importance of rural urban university organizational and family environments for a bunch of intentions and behaviors such as green sport social corporate innovative traditional and gender entrepreneurship This entrepreneurial diversity is translated into higher development through the empowerment of women environmental consciousness and efficient production Policymakers scholars and practitioners can find different examples and cases useful for decision making learning and practice in this book Policy issues and options in aquatic food systems: Review of frameworks, tools, and studies

Ragasa, Catherine,Loison, Sarah Aloba,2023-01-24 Although policies can be critical constraining or enabling factors for aquatic food systems AqFS development scarce evaluation of the impacts of existing policies means that decision makers have limited understanding of how to improve the design and implementation of effective policies This paper reviews key policy issues in AqFS and how they have been analyzed and assessed to provide context tailored policy options and guidance Our review shows that countries face many policy issues but have little analysis on them Despite the availability of a wide variety of frameworks concepts tools methods and approaches their application in empirical analysis to solve policy issues in AqFS has been limited More research is available on local and community level governance of fisheries but less on national or subnational policies and regulations in AqFS The few available policy studies focus on developed countries with fewer applications in developing countries where growth of the aquaculture and fisheries sectors is much stronger The studies provide useful policy options and guidance and this review highlights the need for more such studies to address policy related issues in the sector The Econometrics of Panel Data László Mátyás,Patrick Sevestre,2007 This completely restructured updated third edition of The Econometrics of Panel Data first published in 1992 provides a general overview of the econometrics of panel data both from a theoretical and from an applied viewpoint Since the pioneering papers by Kuh Mundlak Hoch and Balestra and Nerlove the pooling of cross section and time series data has become an increasingly popular way of quantifying economic relationships Each series provides information lacking in the other so a combination of both leads to more accurate and reliable results than would be achievable by one type of series alone This third enhanced edition provides a complete and up to date presentation of theoretical developments as well as surveys about how econometric tools are used to study firms and household s behaviors and or more macroeconomic phenomena such as economic growth It contains sixteen entirely new chapters while the others have been largely revised to account for recent developments in the field The Practice of Econometric Theory Charles G. Renfro,2009-06-29 Econometric theory as presented in textbooks and the econometric literature generally is a somewhat disparate collection of findings Its essential nature is to be a set of demonstrated results that increase over time each logically based on a specific set of axioms or assumptions yet at every moment rather than a finished work these inevitably form an incomplete body of knowledge The practice of econometric theory consists of selecting from applying and evaluating this literature so as to test its applicability and range The creation development and use of computer software has led applied economic research into a new age This book describes the history of econometric computation from 1950 to the present day based upon an interactive survey involving the collaboration of the many econometricians who have designed and developed this software. It identifies each of the econometric software packages that are made available to and used by economists and econometricians worldwide. □□

□□, 2008 The Econometrics of Panel Data László Mátyás, Patrick Sevestre, 2013-12-01 The aim of this volume is to provide a general overview of the econometrics of panel data both from a theoretical and from an applied viewpoint. Since the pioneering papers by Edwin Kuh 1959, Yair Mundlak 1961, Irving Hoch 1962 and Pietro Balestra and Marc Nerlove 1966, the pooling of cross sections and time series data has become an increasingly popular way of quantifying economic relationships. Each series provides information lacking in the other so a combination of both leads to more accurate and reliable results than would be achievable by one type of series alone. Over the last 30 years much work has been done investigating the properties of the applied estimators and test statistics, analysis of dynamic models and the effects of eventual measurement errors etc. These are just some of the problems addressed by this work. In addition, some specific difficulties associated with the use of panel data such as attrition, heterogeneity, selectivity bias, pseudo panels etc. have also been explored. The first objective of this book, which takes up Parts I and II, is to give as complete and up to date a presentation of these theoretical developments as possible. Part I is concerned with classical linear models and their extensions. Part II deals with nonlinear models and related issues: logit and probit models, latent variable models, duration and count data models, incomplete panels and selectivity bias, point processes and simulation techniques. Graduate Courses and Programs Iowa State University, 1997 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1996-06 Econometric Analysis of Panel Data Badi H. Baltagi, 2005-07-18 Econometric Analysis of Panel Data has become established as one of the leading textbooks for students of panel data. The significantly revised and updated third edition from one of the leading researchers and writers in this field builds upon the success of previous editions and includes the most recent empirical examples from panel data literature. Updated topics include dynamic panels, nonstationary panels, limited dependent variable models, heteroskedastic panels, heterogeneous panels and spatial panels. Other notable features of this third edition: The chapter on nonstationary panels has been completely rewritten and updated to include the recent unit root panel tests with cross section dependence and an empirical application is given on purchasing power parity which is illustrated using EViews. An empirical example on nursing labor supply has been added illustrating limited dependent variables methods with panel data. Additional exercises have been added to each chapter and their solutions will be provided on the website TSP. EViews and Stata output examples are given throughout the book. A simultaneous equation on crime has been added and is illustrated with Stata. Material on heteroskedasticity in panels is completely revised and updated with recent estimation and testing results.
