Abstract

The Emerging Technology Collection at Carleton University is a successful collaboration between three units on campus: the Library, the Discovery Centre for Undergraduate Research and Engagement, and Information Technology Services. The Emerging Technology Collection began as a pilot project in January 2015 to circulate Raspberry Pis and Arduinos at the request of faculty in the Engineering Department. Due to the success of the pilot project, the collection now provides access to over 70 pieces of technology equipment for loan to support experiential learning for students. Development and implementation of the Collection is discussed. The Emerging Technology Collection has provided a number of academic benefits, such as innovative student projects, outreach and faculty engagement, and community engagement. There have also been benefits for the Library including promotion of the Library collection, continuing education for Library staff, and significant usage of the Emerging Technology Collection. Some of the challenges faced during the development of this collection are analyzed, including the need to register certain products, maintenance and upkeep of the collection, damage and replacement costs, and promoting the use of emerging technology across disciplines. This successful project underscores the value of a shared space where different units on campus can work together to develop and deliver an innovative new service. Finally, this project demonstrates the value of innovation in academic libraries that are responsive to new developments and deliver useful services.

The Emerging Technology Collection At Carleton University:

Innovation and Experiential Learning in Academic Libraries Sarah Nagle, Elias Tzoc, 2022-03-15 As technology advances and the skills required for the future workforce continue to change rapidly academic libraries have begun to expand the definition of information literacy and the type of library services they provide to better prepare students for the constantly developing world they will face upon graduation More than teaching the newest technologies information literacy is expanding to help students develop enduring skills such as critical thinking creativity problem solving communication teamwork and more Innovation and Experiential Learning in Academic Libraries Meeting the Needs of 21st Century Students addresses the multitude of ways that academic librarians are collaborating with faculty and helping students develop these enduring skills by developing and integrating active and experiential learning approaches into teaching activities This book is divided into three sections The first section explores the role that library leaders play in supporting and advocating for innovation in information literacy and library services The second section features case studies from librarians who are implementing novel and multidisciplinary approaches to information literacy and innovative services such as maker scholarship digital humanities undergraduate research experiences and new active learning strategies These case studies also highlight how the COVID 19 pandemic has transformed teaching and learning in academic libraries The final section looks to the future providing guidance to information professionals on the issues and technologies that will drive transformations of information literacy in the coming years such as artificial intelligence and new information literacy applications As such library administrators academic librarians information literacy practitioners and technologists will benefit from this book

Bold Minds Margaret Weaver, Leo Appleton, 2020-11-10 Are librarians and libraries relevant in the 21st century This is a fundamental question and one that presents differing opinions across the many diverse information sectors If there is a continuing need for libraries and for librarians then how do library leaders obtain strategic support when there appears to be a lack of clarity or understanding about the very purpose of libraries at a time when economically libraries are under pressure to develop new business models and be more commercially focussed Bold Minds Library leadership in a time of disruption brings together international leaders who frame many aspects of the current library provision and who carry responsibility for the library models of the future to consider how librarians and libraries can be a driving force in a time of disruptive economic technological and cultural change Each chapter critically presents a short leadership provocation regarding libraries and their purpose encompassing impact service delivery collections staff skills and professional training and assessing what it means for leaders their sectors and organisations and how they have developed their personal leadership signature This book will be invaluable to library and information professionals in a range of public and private sector libraries as well as policy makers in services where libraries are a component It will also be useful for students educational establishments and IT professionals with an information management element to their work

Emerging Technologies and International Stability Todd S. Sechser, Neil Narang, Caitlin Talmadge, 2021-11-28 Technology has always played a central role in international politics it shapes the ways states fight during wartime and compete during peacetime Today rapid advancements have contributed to a widespread sense that the world is again on the precipice of a new technological era Emerging technologies have inspired much speculative commentary but academic scholarship can improve the discussion with disciplined theory building and rigorous empirics This book aims to contribute to the debate by exploring the role of technology both military and non military in shaping international security Specifically the contributors to this edited volume aim to generate new theoretical insights into the relationship between technology and strategic stability test them with sound empirical methods and derive their implications for the coming technological age This book is very novel in its approach It covers a wide range of technologies both old and new rather than emphasizing a single technology Furthermore this volume looks at how new technologies might affect the broader dynamics of the international system rather than limiting the focus to a stability The contributions to this volume walk readers through the likely effects of emerging technologies at each phase of the conflict process The chapters begin with competition in peacetime move to deterrence and coercion and then explore the dynamics of crises the outbreak of conflict and war escalation in an environment of emerging technologies The chapters in this book except for the Introduction and the Conclusion were originally published in the Journal of Strategic Studies

Status and Advancement of Women Digumarti Bhaskara Rao, 2000 Reviews the problems and priorities as well as international bills and actions relating to the advancement of women Covers women and work their health and education violence and poverty the UN Action for Women the Beijing Declaration and the Commission on the Status of Women

Genre In The New Rhetoric Aviva Freedman, Peter Medway, 2003-09-02 In this work theorists reflect on the growing interest in genre studies in a number of inter related disciplines such as literary theory sociology and cultural studies and examine the implications this reconception of genre has on both research and teaching

Embedding New Technologies into Society Diana M. Bowman, Elen Stokes, Arie Rip, 2017-09-01 The embedding of any new technologies in society is challenging The evolving state of the scientific art often unquantifiable risks and ill defined developmental trajectories have the potential to hinder innovation and or the commercial success of a technology There are however a number of tools that can now be utilized by stakeholders to bridge the chasm that exists between the science and innovation dimensions on the one hand and the societal dimensions on the other This edited volume will draw together leading researchers from the domains of law philosophy political science public administration and the natural sciences in order to demonstrate how tools such as for example constructive technology assessment regulatory governance and societal scenarios may be employed by stakeholders to assist in successfully embedding new technologies into society This volume will focus primarily on the embedding of two emergent and emerging technologies nanotechnologies and synthetic biology Government industry and the epistemic community continue to struggle with how best to balance the promised benefits of an emerging technology with concerns about its potential impacts There is a growing body of literature that has examined these challenges from various cultural scientific and jurisdictional dimensions There is however much work that still needs to be done this includes articulating the successes and failures of attempts to the societal embedding of technologies and their associated products This edited volume is significant and timely as unlike other books currently on the market it shall draw from real work experiences and experiments designed anticipate the societal embedding of emerging technologies This empirical work shall be supported by robust theoretical underpinnings
