The House Of Hunger Dambudzo Marechera:

The House of Hunger MARTIN LUTHER KING JR. (. MARECHERA, DAMBUDZO.), Dambudzo Marechera, 2025-04-17 No I don't hate being black I'm just tired of saying it's beautiful No I don't hate myself I'm just tired of people bruising their knuckles on my jaw A novella with the force of a screaming trumpet flare Dambudzo Marechera's seminal literary debut explores a body and spirit exiled from the land and the self An inimitable and internationally admired writer his profound ambivalence and wry existential sensibility was forged in this iconic book Emerging Perspectives on Dambudzo Marechera A. J. and Charles Mungoshi's "waiting for the rain" Katharina Helmer, 2007-02-20 Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 2.0 University of Regensburg language English abstract The authors I want to concentrate on in this paper Charles Mungoshi and Dambudzo Marechera are both African writers who belong to the so called second generation of Zimbabwean writers which means that they were born between 1940 and 1959 and published in the 1960s and 70s. They speak for the lost generation which grew up after World War Second in a country reigned by a white minority government and shattered by a guerrilla war against that government and have somehow lost their identity. However, although they were born in the same period of time in the same country and were influenced by the same political and cultural circumstances on which I will put a closer focus later, their lives were very different. Mungoshi grew up in a rural area and stayed in Zimbabwe during the time of war, whereas Marechera was a township child who left Zimbabwe and lived in the exile in England during the time of the war. As a result, their writings, which were heavily influenced by their autobiographies, mirror these differences in their ways of life. In this paper, I will first look at the historical background in which both authors grew up at political, cultural, social, and educational circumstances. Secondly, I am going to depict what their lives looked like and which were the differences and Gemeinsamkeiten in their ways of life. After that, I will analyse how those differences and also the Gemeinsamkeiten in their ways of life influenced their writing, made them develop their special own styles, and are mirrored in the themes of their narratives. As an example, I will have a closer look at two of their most important writings, which are Dambudzo Marechera's short story collection The House of Hunger published in 19 and Charles Mungoshi's novel Waiting for the rain published in 19, by analysing them concerning the form and the content and also by searching for autobiographical traces in both works. In the end, I will try to compare both writings and depict the most important differences and gemeinsamkeiten.

The Minoritarian and Black Reason D. Nandi Odhiambo, 2021-05-11 The Minoritarian and Black Reason A Philosophico Literary Investigation addresses the question how can we understand and relate responsibly to others who differ from us in our everyday concerns. The work looks at theories about difference in a variety of philosophical texts and novels from the early modern and modern periods to examine their various approaches to the problem of representational language. The author discusses how these distinct methods of thought present the Black figure and critiques how imagined blackness or Black reason willfully looks away from the African presence. Central to this inquiry are key concepts from Gilles Deleuze and Felix Guattari in a description of the minoritarian as a non-representational method that discloses affective intensity in naked life, zoe, beings of the sensible, sentiendum, and personae. So it is presented as a third term in an ungrounded field of experience composed of assemblages or social networks. Hence, the book deconstructs a unified structuralist ontology to propose a line of flight from a model of logic used to objectify and reproduce identities of people from a varied sphere of political rights.

Long Dreams in Short Chapters Wumi Raji, 2009 This book is concerned with, in the main, the whole question of the transformation of the identities of the different peoples of postcolonial Africa Even so it is clear that the issues raised would resonate clearly in similar contexts in other parts of the world Long Dreams in Short Chapters is a remarkable achievement a brilliant and magisterial remapping of the African text in its literary cultural and political dimensions Author Wumi Raji s globalist and transnational sensitivities make this book an effortless unpacking of the complexities of the African literary process and it is a landmark contribution to African thought
