

CHAPTER 3

Structuring Decisions

Notes

Chapters 3 and 4 might be considered the heart of Making Hard Decisions with DecisionTools. Here is where most of the action happens. Chapter 3 describes the process of structuring objectives and building influence diagrams and decision trees. Chapter 4 discusses analysis. The chapter begins with a comprehensive discussion of value structuring and incorporates value-focused thinking throughout. Constructing influence diagrams and decision trees to reflect multiple objectives is demonstrated, and the chapter contains a discussion of scales for measuring achievement of fundamental objectives, including how to construct scales for objectives with no natural measures.

Understanding one's objectives in a decision context is a crucial step in modeling the decision. This section of the chapter shows how to identify and structure values, with an important emphasis on distinguishing between fundamental and means objectives and creating hierarchies and networks, respectively, to represent these. The fundamental objectives are the main reasons for caring about a decision in the first place, and so they play a large role in subsequent modeling with influence diagrams or decision trees.

Students can generally grasp the concepts of influence diagrams and how to interpret them. Creating influence diagrams, on the other hand, seems to be much more difficult. Thus, in teaching students how to create an influence diagram for a specific situation, we stress basic influence diagrams, in particular the basic risky decision and imperfect information. Students should be able to identify these basic forms and modify them to match specific problems. The problems at the end of the chapter range from simple identification of basic forms to construction of diagrams that are fairly complex.

The discussion of decision trees is straightforward, and many students have already been exposed to decision trees somewhere in their academic careers. Again, a useful strategy seems to be to stress some of the basic forms.

Also discussed in Chapter 3 is the matter of including in the decision model appropriate details. One issue is the inclusion of probabilities and payoffs. More crucial is the clarity test and the development of scales for measuring fundamental objectives. The matter of clarifying definitions of alternatives, outcomes, and consequences is absolutely crucial in real-world problems. The clarity test forces us to define all aspects of a problem with great care. The advantage in the classroom of religiously applying the clarity test is that the problems one addresses obtain much more realism and relevance for the students. It is very easy to be lazy and gloss over definitional issues in working through a problem (e.g., "Let's assume that the market could go either up or down"). If care is taken to define events to pass the clarity test ("The market goes up means that the Standard & Poor's 500 Index rises"), problems become more realistic and engaging.

The last section in Chapter 3 describes in detail how to use PrecisionTree for structuring decisions. The instructions are intended to be a self-contained tutorial on constructing decision trees and influence diagrams. PrecisionTree does have an interactive video tutorial along with video tutorials on the basics and videos from experts. These videos along with example spreadsheets and the manual all can be found in the PrecisionTree menu ribbon under Help, then choosing Welcome to PrecisionTree.

Please note that if you enter probability values that do not sum to 100% for a chance node, then the program uses normalized probability values. For example, if a chance node has two branches and the corresponding probabilities entered are (10%, 80%), then the model will use (11.11%, 88.89%) – i.e., $0.1/(0.1+0.8)$ and $0.8/(0.1+0.8)$.

Because this chapter focuses on structuring the decision, many of the problems do not have all of the numbers required to complete the model. In some cases, the spreadsheet solution provides the structure of the problem only, and the formulas were deleted (for example, problem 3.10). In other cases, the model is

Techniques and Guidelines for Social Work Practice Bradford W. Sheafor,Charles R. Horejsi,2006 0205446175 Sheafor Techniques and Guidelines for Social Work Practice 7e The latest edition of this classic book continues to provide students and practitioners of social work with a one of a kind resource designed to emphasize the different techniques needed for successful practice Carefully updated to provide social workers with easy access to the most current information on professional techniques and guidelines and organized to support a generalist practice perspective Techniques and Guidelines for Social Work Practice illustrates multiple ways in which both direct and indirect intervention activities are a part of the social worker's repertoire. Touching upon everything from cultural competence to macro practice, the content of this text is so widely applicable it is an invaluable aid in making the transition to a professional career in social work and a staple of professional social work libraries. In a classroom it is ideal for use in advanced practice capstone and field work courses. Parts I and II summarize the essential foundation elements of social work practice while Parts III through V set out 157 clearly described techniques and guidelines that can be used by students and new practitioners. The latest edition includes many changes that make it just as essential as previous editions. Techniques deleted from prior editions due to space restrictions are now available at www.ablongman.com/sheafor7e. New techniques include guidelines for assessing small group functioning, family group conferencing and building mentoring relationships as well as addressing client concerns related to spirituality and religion and serving the client or community experiencing an emergency or disaster. Following the lessons of 9/11, new content is included to prepare social workers to deal with a client or community emergency. Information is included on family group conferencing, a new approach based on the principles of restorative justice about which social workers should be knowledgeable. New guidelines for using mentoring relationships in which senior practitioners without direct administrative responsibilities support and nurture developing social workers are included in this edition along with new guidelines for assessing small group functioning as a means of strengthening subsequent intervention activities with groups. Chapter 14 now includes a straightforward description of techniques for conducting empirical direct practice evaluation with current illustrations based on students' applications of the most commonly used evaluation tools.

Water in a Changing World World Water Assessment Programme (United Nations), 2009. The United Nations World Water Development Report published every three years is a comprehensive review providing an authoritative picture of the state of the world's freshwater resources. It offers best practices as well as in-depth theoretical analyses to help stimulate ideas and actions for better stewardship in the water sector. It is the only report of its kind resulting from the collaboration and contributions of the 26 UN agencies' commissions, program funds, secretariats and conventions that have a significant role in addressing global water concerns. The news media are full of talk of crises in climate change, energy and food and troubled financial markets. These crises are linked to each other and to water resources management. Unresolved, they may lead to increasing political insecurity and conflict. Water is required to meet our fundamental needs and rising living standards and to sustain our planet's fragile ecosystems. Pressures on the resource come from a growing and mobile population, social and cultural change, economic development and technological change. Adding complexity and risk is climate change with impacts on the resource as well as on the sources of pressure on water. The challenges, though substantial, are not insurmountable. The Report shows how some countries have responded. Progress in providing drinking water is heartening with the Millennium Development Goal target on track in most regions. But other areas remain unaddressed and after decades of inaction the problems in water systems are enormous and will worsen if left unattended. Leaders in the water sector can inform decisions outside their domain and manage water resources to achieve agreed socioeconomic objectives and environmental integrity Leaders in government the private sector and civil society determine these objectives and allocate human and financial resources to meet them Recognizing this responsibility they must act now Two volume set 336 96 pages case studies Includes CD ROM Published jointly with UNESCO Publishing The Process of Management William Herman Newman, Charles Edgar Summer, 1961 The Law of Debtors and Creditors Elizabeth Warren, Jay Lawrence Westbrook, 1991 Teaching
