Abstract

The hotel industry is a business venture for the owner and a solace for the traveler and/or tourist. A customer can get stranded in the quest to secure a hotel room to pass the night if he has not made adequate plans by the existing system. Through this study, it was realized that for a customer to be guaranteed a room, he or she has to physically come to the hotel since the attendants paid more attention to that. He could also send a friend or relative who lives around the neighbourhood of the hotel to do the booking for him. There is nothing to bond the hotel and the customer in person that he has indeed booked for a room. This study took Hansonic Hotel as its case. It looked at creating an online reservation system to enable customers choose the room they wanted after a virtual tour to guarantee him a room.

Keywords: reservation, hotel, customer.

1 Introduction

The Hotel Industry like any other business opens up socio-economic opportunities for both owner and customer. It has the function of providing hospitality services to customers. These customers can be travelers, foreigners, businessmen, tourists, visitors, etc. Customers are mostly constrained in trying to get a room to pass the night, as the usual practice is to look for a hotel when you have arrived in the particular location, walk in and find out whether there is a vacant room. In the case that there is no vacant room, you have to move to next closest hotel to enquire once more. So what happens if you move around sometimes very late in the night in search of a room and all close by hotels are fully booked? Other times you may be lucky to have the contact number of the hotel to reach them to book for a room. But do the hotel attendants really ensure to keep a room for you? You would be lucky to go and get a room booked for you. They are quick to serve those who walk in rather than those who may get access to them on phone to book a room. On other times too, if you have friends or family members in the area you want a room booked, they have to go and do the checking for you. There is no system in place that bonds the hotel and the customer that the customer has actually booked a room and for that matter he is guaranteed a room. This can make customers really stranded especially if it is getting late in the night.

It is in this light that this study looks at the activities at HANSONIC Hotel in Dansoman. Hansonic hotel was established in the 1973. It is a budget hotel meaning it is less than a one star hotel. It was established to provide accommodation and catering services for tourists, locals, foreigners who are in Accra to trade, rest, eat as well as those on vacation. Hansonic Hotel has a sister institution called Hans Cottage Hotel in Cape Coast. Hans Cottage Hotel compliments Hansonic hotel since it has a very spacious space to mainly receive tourists and holiday makers. It engages in tourist activities like Crocodile viewing, Fishing, Bird watching as well as Boat riding, Monkey Playing, etc. The hotel has other services for tourists like car rentals, swimming pool, tennis court, salon, etc. This makes both institutions very marketable because of their proximity. Hans Cottage Hotel is present online (www.hansbhotelghana.com) and it displays the facilities they have but there is scanty information on the Hansonic Hotel. Though the Hans Hotel attracts more tourists because of its proximity in Cape Coast, Hansonic hotel also needs more online presence to serve customers who are in Accra.

Hansonic hotel uses a manual booking system to date and likewise the Hans Hotel. Normally when a the book for booking gets filled, it is damped elsewhere and sometimes disposed which is not a good practice as you cannot analyse data to see trends, and make proper planning. Management is not excited about this since they are not able to keep proper records or details. This obviously can limit their competitiveness since customers cannot book for a room from any location by themselves.

The study therefore aimed at developing an online hotel reservation system to enable customers book for whatever they need from wherever location they are before lodging into the hotel. The system is to allow for easy access and retrieval of information and reporting. With such a system in place, Hansonic Hotel would be more competitive in Accra.
