Experience Is What You Get Right After You

Need It John M. Check DMin, 2025-07-14 We all make mistakes and most of us make the same mistake several times Learning from our mistakes is a lifelong process Growing is often painful but growing and learning are positive benefits of failure We often learn very little from our successes Instead we learn what will work by trial and error Great leaders learn what works by trying and failing We should embrace failures and ask ourselves difficult questions rather than running away The first and most important question is where did the idea originate Was this a good idea If so why did it fail What was my role in the failure and what could I have done better How did I respond to the failure and what will I do differently next time We must be courageous enough to ask these and other probing questions in the church community or whatever group setting is relevant to the circumstances Finally we must never allow ourselves to be defined by failure recognizing that the ultimate failure is not trying

Discipleship in Education Joseph Allotta, 2018-02-08 Students are often tested to evaluate their academic knowledge but few Christian schools use objective measures to determine if a student has become a true disciple of Christ Unfortunately there are few organizations that provide metrics for measuring biblical knowledge let alone any sort of comparative evaluation of students engaging in the Christian disciplines forming a biblical worldview or actually being impacted spiritually by the programs of the school No matter whose statistics one chooses to believe the inescapable truth is that the church is losing its young men and women at an alarming rate once they graduate from high school The solution to this problem is simple but increasingly difficult to solve with each passing year Discipleship is what is needed for young people to truly identify who they are in Christ so that they can begin to develop godly habits and ultimately grow in their knowledge faith and desire to serve the Lord and his Kingdom Christian schools have some particular advantages in the area of discipleship however their full potential is at the moment untapped Discipleship in Education is about preparing everyone from administrators teachers pastors and parents to be ready to unleash that potential
