Illustrated Handbook Of Shells:

An Illustrated Handbook of Shells Shintaro Hirase, 1954 An Illustrated Handbook of Shells, 1954

Seashells of the Egyptian Red Sea Mary Lyn Rusmore-Villaume, 2008 Stunning photographs make this guide to the seashells of Egypt's Red Sea coast a delight for scientists and beachcombers alike. Biologist Mary Lyn Rusmore-Villaume offers succinct descriptions of over five hundred species indicating geographic range, size, color, and other details. The book is organized by taxonomy, divided between gastropods and bivalves, and each species is illustrated with one or more photographs for easy identification, all taken especially for this book by the author using shells from her own collection. All the shells most people are likely to see are included here, as well as many rare specimens, including an entirely new species discovered by the author. The species covered come from all regions of Egypt bordering the Red Sea, including the Gulf of Suez, South Sinai, the Gulf of Aqaba, and the mainland coast from Hurghada to Shalatin. As the only guide to Egypt's Red Sea shells, this is an invaluable reference for anyone interested in the Red Sea and its rich biodiversity. Copiously illustrated and comprehensive in its approach, Seashells of the Egyptian Red Sea represents a unique contribution to the scientific knowledge of the marine fauna of this branch of the Indo-Pacific region.

Sturm, Timothy A. Pearce, Ángel Valdés, 2006 Mollusks have been important to humans since our earliest days. Initially when humans were primarily interested in what they could eat, or use, mollusks were important as food, ornaments, and materials for tools. Over the centuries, as human knowledge branched out, and individuals started to study the world around them, mollusks were important subjects for learning how things worked. In this volume, the editors and contributors have brought together a broad range of topics within the field of malacology. It is our expectation that these topics will be of interest and use to amateur and professional malacologists. Molluscan Research Vol. 29, No. 1, Bivalve Mollusc Culture Research in Thailand Tanittha Chongpeepien, 1988-01-01 Shells of New Zealand; an Illustrated Handbook, by A.
