A Super Space Place

The International Space Station (ISS) was built by thousands of people from 15 countries. All these people and countries want to find out if humans can one day live in space.

Floating 220 miles above Earth, the ISS is made up of many pieces that were put together by astronauts in space. The main part of the construction began in 1998. United States space shuttles and Russian rockets transported tools and pieces of the station to help finish building it. They assembled the pieces in space! It was completed in 2011.

It is the largest structure ever to float above Earth. Although the main construction is complete, the ISS will continue to evolve as astronauts go on new missions and conduct experiments.

Some of the questions that crews who built the space station and crews that continue to visit the station are trying to answer include: How does space travel affect germs? Does the body break down food and nutrients differently in space? Some day, the station may even serve as a launchpad for missions to other planets, such as Mars.

Because of its large size, the ISS needs a lot of power. This power comes from solar energy. To create solar energy, large panels are lined with special materials. These materials collect the sun's energy for power and change the sun's rays into electricity.

So what does it cost to build such a structure? It costs more than $150 billion dollars. Although this may seem astronomical, it may be a small price to pay for a project that enables some of the world's finest scientists to work together, exploring space for the world's future.

1 Write C for cause or E for effect for each sentence.

- _____ Fifteen countries built the International Space Station.
- _____ People want to know if humans can one day live in space.
- _____ The ISS is powered by solar energy.
- _____ Panels are lined with special materials that change the sun's rays into electricity.
