Communicated Stereotypes at Work Yifeng Hu, Anastacia Kurylo, 2024-05-15 In Communicated Stereotypes at Work the editors and contributors posit that stereotypes communicated in the workplace remain a pervasive issue due to the dichotomy between the discriminatory and functional roles that these stereotypes can play in a range of professional settings Contributors demonstrate that while the use of stereotypes in the workplace is distasteful and exclusionary communicating these stereotypes can also appear on the surface to provide a pathway toward bonding with others giving advice and reducing uncertainty The result of this dichotomy is that those who communicate stereotypes in the workplace may not view this communication from themselves or others as being problematic With an emphasis on qualitative methods and analyses contributors deconstruct stereotypes by exploring the theoretical empirical and pragmatic roles they play in communication In doing so authors expose the underpinnings of stereotypes and why they are communicated focus on the role all of us play in perpetuating stereotypes and suggest alternative modes of productive discourse Scholars of interpersonal and organizational communication cultural studies and sociology as well as practitioners of various professions will find this book particularly useful

Food Systems Communication Amid Compounding Crises: Power, Resistance, and Change Kathleen P. Hunt, Constance Gordon, Mohan Jyoti Dutta, 2022-11-10 EBOOK: Experiencing Intercultural Communication: An Introduction Judith Martin, Thomas Nakayama, G.P. van Rhee, de van Oudtshoorn, Paul Schutte, 2013-07-16 The new Southern African edition of this popular introductory textbook offers students a practical and accessible framework for developing their intercultural communication skills It provides a global perspective on intercultural communication while allowing students to contextualise their knowledge with relevant examples applications and perspectives Recognising that students in Southern African come from diverse cultural ethnic and linguistic backgrounds it provides discussion of issues and perspectives they can apply to everyday life and to broader contexts The Critical Turn in Language and Intercultural Communication Pedagogy Maria Dasli, Adriana Raquel Díaz, 2016-09-13 This edited research volume explores the development of what can be described as the critical turn in intercultural communication pedagogy with a particular focus on modern foreign language education The main aim is to trace the realisations of this critical turn against a background of unequal power relations and to illuminate the role that radical culture educators can play in the making of a more democratic and egalitarian social order The volume takes as a starting point the idea that criticality draws on a number of intellectual traditions which do not always focus on social and political critique and argues that because ideological hegemony impacts on the meanings that people create and share intercultural communication pedagogy ought to locate itself within wider socio political contexts With reference points drawn from critical and transnational social theory critical pedagogy and intercultural theory contributors to this volume provide readers with powerful ways that show how this can be achieved and together assess the impact that their understanding of criticality can make on modern foreign language education The volume is divided into three major parts

Bullied Keith Berry, 2016-04-28 In this examination of the ubiquitous practice of bullying among youth, compelling first person stories vividly convey the lived experience of peer torment and how it impacted the lives of five diverse young women. Author Keith Berry's own autoethnographic narratives and analysis add important relational, communication, methodological and ethical dimensions to their accounts. The personal stories create an opening to understand how this form of physical and verbal violence shapes identities, relationships, communication and the construction of meaning among a variety of youth. The layered narrative describes the practices constituting bullying and how youth work to cope with peer torment and its aftermath, largely focusing on identity construction and well-being. It addresses contemporary cyberbullying as well as other forms of relational aggression in many social contexts across race, gender and sexual orientations. It is written in a compelling way to be accessible to students in communication, education, psychology, social welfare and other fields.

Organizing Inclusion Marya L. Doerfel, Jennifer L. Gibbs, 2020-04-23 Organizing Inclusion brings communication experts together to examine issues of inclusion and exclusion which have emerged as a major challenge as both society and the workforce become more diverse. Connecting communication theories to diversity and inclusion and clarifying that inclusion is about the communication processes of organizations, institutions and communities, the book explores how communication as an organizing phenomenon underlies systemic and institutionalized biases and generates practices that privilege certain groups while excluding or marginalizing others. Bringing a global perspective that transcends particular problems faced by Western cultures, the contributors address issues across sub-disciplines of communication studies ranging from social and environmental activism to problems of race, gender, sexual orientation, age and ability. With these various perspectives, the chapters go beyond demographic diversity by addressing interaction and structural processes that can be used to promote inclusion. Using these multiple theoretical frameworks, Organizing Inclusion is an intellectual resource for improving theoretical understanding and practical applications that come with ever more diverse people working, coordinating and engaging one another. The book will be of great relevance to organizational stakeholders, human resource personnel and policy makers as well as to scholars and students working in the fields of communication management and organization studies.
