Rural Poverty Alleviation Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1993-01-01 Resource Use and Agricultural Sustainability Lin Zhen,Michael A. Zöbisch,2006 Accelerating technical change through video-mediated agricultural extension: Evidence from Ethiopia Abate, Gashaw T.,Bernard, Tanguy,Makhija, Simrin,Spielman, David J., Despite a rapidly growing enthusiasm around applications of information and communications technologies ICTs to smallholder agriculture in developing countries there are still many questions on the effectiveness of ICT based approaches This study assesses the effects of videomediated agricultural extension service provision on farmers knowledge and adoption of improved agricultural technologies and practices in Ethiopia The study focuses on a program piloted by the Government of Ethiopia and Digital Green and poses three questions First to what extent does video mediated extension lead to increased uptake of improved agricultural technologies and practices by smallholder farmers Second is video mediated extension targeted at both spouses of the household more effective than when only targeted at the typically male household head Third how cost effective is a video mediated approach to extension provision The study explores these questions with a randomized controlled trial designed to evaluate the video mediated approach as applied to three priority crops teff wheat maize and three technologies row planting precise seeding rates and urea dressing The trial was implemented in 347 kebeles village clusters during the 2017 meher rainy season in Ethiopia s four most agriculturally important regional states Analysis of data from our surveys of 2 422 households and 896 extension agents indicates that the video mediated approach is more effective than the conventional approach in achieving several key outcomes Specifically we find that videomediated extension reaches a wider audience than the conventional approach and leads to higher levels of agricultural knowledge and uptake of technologies in those kebeles randomly assigned to the program While our results do point to greater participation and greater knowledge of female spouses in kebeles where both male and female spouses were targeted by the program we do not find clear evidence that the more inclusive approach translated into higher uptake of the subject technologies and practices Finally we find that the video mediated approach becomes less costly as the scale of operation increases

Essentials of modern marketing management & supply chain systems for vegetable seed companies Germain N. Pichop,2007 Decentralization and the Social Economics of Development Christopher Brendan Barrett,Andrew G.

Mude, John Omiti, 2007 This book focuses on the experience of decentralization in rural Kenya and is presented in two parts under the following themes i successes and failures of decentralization chapters 2 6 and ii socioeconomic and institutional preconditions for successful decentralization chapters 7 10 The text will be of interest to researchers and students in social sciences and development studies and to policy makers in international aid agencies non governmental development organizations and government ministries A subject index is included Aid and Agricultural Extension Michael W. P. Baxter, Roger Slade, John Howell, World Bank, 1989 The paper opens with brief examinations of the process of agricultural extension and the different forms of publicly provided extension services An extensive review of the common ways of organizing extension emphasizes the similarities and differences between and strengths and weaknesses of rural extension commodity based extension and extension services founded in Universities The World Bank is shown to have supported all types of extension The scale of that support and the Bank's role and aims in providing it are examined at some length The achievements of other donors are similarly examined Several important aspects of extension are identified which require careful treatment in designing or modifying extension systems The importance of a stable agricultural policy environment is emphasized along with the need for a robust yet flexible research system Further drawing on work done by the World Bank and elsewhere some important economic issues in developing implementing monitoring and evaluating extension projects are reviewed The paper closes by drawing a series of conclusions relevant to the formulation of agricultural extension policy and notes some areas where further study and analysis are needed
