Bottomley, 2012 British Journal of Actinotherapy and Physiotherapy , 1928 A Practical Medical Dictionary ... Thomas Lathrop Stedman, 1926 A Dictionary of Neurological Signs A.J. Larner, 2007-05-08 Neurology has always been a discipline in which careful physical examination is paramount The rich vocabulary of neurology replete with eponyms attests to this historically The decline in the importance of the examination has long been predicted with the advent of more detailed neuroimaging However neuroimaging has often provided a surfeit of information from which salient features have to be identified dependent upon the neurological examination A dictionary of neurological signs has a secure future A dictionary should be informative but unless it is unwieldy it cannot be comprehensive nor is that claimed here Andrew Larner has decided sensibly to include key features of the history as well as the examination There is no doubt that some features of the history can strike one with the force of a physical sign There are entries for palinopsia and environmental tilt both of which can only be elicited from the history and yet which have considerable significance There is also an entry for the head turning sign observed during the history taking itself as well as the majority of entries relating to details of the physical examination This book is directed to students and will be valuable to medical students trainee neurologists and professions allied to medicine Neurologists often speak in shorthand and so entries such as absence and freezing are sensible and helpful

New Medical Dictionary Henry Ware Cattell, 1910 Principles of Assessment and Outcome Measurement for Occupational Therapists and Physiotherapists Alison Laver Fawcett, 2013-03-15 This textbook on assessment and outcome measurement is written for both occupational therapy and physiotherapy students and qualified therapists. It begins by defining what is meant by assessment, outcome evaluation and measurement and discussing the complexity of therapy assessment and measurement including the challenge of measuring human behaviour and the impact of factors such as task demand and context including the environment. Methods of data collection e.g. observation, interview, standardised testing and sources e.g. self-report proxy for collecting information about clients are then reviewed and the main purposes of assessment e.g. descriptive, evaluative, predictive, discriminative presented. The book then addresses the topics of standardisation, levels of measurement, reliability, validity and clinical utility. There is a chapter describing and applying models for categorizing levels of function to aid assessment and measurement. The concept of clinical reasoning and reflective practice is then explored. Application of principles is supported through detailed case studies and worksheets and the criteria for test critique and guidelines for choosing a particular assessment approach are discussed.
