

Annotation and Dialectical Journal Instructions

As part of your summer reading assignment, you will annotate your text as you read and complete a dialectical journal. Below are definitions and examples of annotations and dialectical journals.

Annotations

Annotating keeps the reader engaged with the text. While you are reading, use one or more of these strategies to mark the book and include your thoughts and questions.

1. Write comments in the margin, especially to ask questions, relate to characters, make connections your own life, etc.
2. Star any passages that are very important: events, decisions, or cause and effect relationships.
3. Underline any sentences that made you think or appealed to you.
4. Circle/highlight words that are unfamiliar.
5. Bracket areas that you were confused about or did not fully understand.

Dialectical Journal

A dialectical journal shows your conversation with the text. It is used to question, make connections, and explore ideas you had as you read. Below is an example. Pre-AP ELA 6 through Pre-AP English II should have 12 entries. They will be evaluated on details and thoughtfulness.

	Quote from Text	Commentary
Can be quotes about a character, an event or a scene	"The flower garden was strained with rotting brown magnolia petals and iron weeds grew rank amid the purple phlox...the last graveyard flowers were blooming" (1).	From the onset of the story, James Hurst creates the image of death through his description of the dying flowers and specific reference to the "graveyard flowers." The tone is heavy and dark creating a sense of foreboding.	Thoughts, comments, ideas, connections, understandings, recognition of literary devices
	"A brilliant moonbeam was slanting through a gap in the curtains" (9).	Since the author used the word slant, I picture a sharp ray of light into the room instead of it just shining. The details help me picture the room and I wonder if the moonbeam is keeping the character awake.

- Why did...
- This part about _____ makes me wonder...
- How are these similar...
- How are these different...
- What would happen if...
- Why...
- Who is...
- This section about _____ means...
- This reminds me of...
- This part is like...
- The character is like...
- This is similar to...
- The differences are...

- I also ...
- I never...
- This character makes me think of...
- This setting reminds me of...
- This is good because...
- This is hard because...
- This is confusing because...
- I like the part where...
- I don't like this part because...
- My favorite part so far is...
- I think that...

Dialectical Journal Annotation Guide And Rhetorical:

Resources in Education, 1975 Argumentation and Language — Linguistic, Cognitive and Discursive Explorations
Steve Oswald, Thierry Herman, Jérôme Jacquin, 2018-03-08 This volume focuses on the role language plays at all levels of the argumentation process. It explores the effects that specific linguistic choices may have in the production and the reception of arguments and in doing so it moves beyond the first necessary descriptive stance provided by current literature on the topic. Each chapter provides an original take illuminating one or more of the following three issues: the range of linguistic resources language users draw on as they argue; how cognitive processes of meaning construction may influence argumentative practices; and which discursive devices can be used to fulfil a number of argumentative goals. The volume includes theoretical and empirical or applied stances providing the reader both with state of the art reflections on the relationship between argumentation and language and with concrete examples of how this relationship plays out in naturally occurring argumentative practices such as classroom interaction and political parliamentary or journalistic discourse. This is a very original, timely and welcome contribution to the study of argumentation conducted with the tools of the language sciences. The collection of papers relevantly tackles key linguistic discursive and cognitive aspects of argumentative practices whose treatment is underrepresented in mainstream argumentation studies by offering new and exciting linguistically grounded theoretical accounts. As such, the volume testifies both to the vigour of the linguistic current within the discipline and to the high standards of scholarly commitment and quality that the younger generation is pushing forward. Without question, this book marks an important milestone in the relationships between linguistics and argumentation theory. Christian Plantin, Professor Emeritus.

Computational Models of Argument S. Modgil, K. Budzynska, J. Lawrence, 2018-09-06 In its classical form, the study of argumentation focuses on human-oriented uses of argument such as whether an argument is legitimate or flawed, engagement in debate, or the rhetorical aspects of argumentation. In recent decades, however, the study of logic and computational models of argumentation has emerged as a growing sub-area of AI. This book presents the Seventh International Conference on Computational Models of Argument (COMMA 18) held in Warsaw, Poland, from 12 to 14 September 2018. Since its inception in 2006, the conference and its related activities have developed alongside the steady growth of interest in computational argumentation worldwide. The selection of 25 full papers and 17 short papers out of a total of 70 submissions and 15 demonstration abstracts included here reflect the broad multidisciplinary nature of argumentation and the increasing body of work which establishes the relevance of computational models to various disciplines and real-world applications. Subjects covered include algorithm development, innovative applications, argument mining, argumentation-based models of dialogue, abstract argument frameworks, and structured argumentation. Representing an overview of current developments in the field, this book will appeal to all those with an interest in computational models of argument.
